Michigan Homes Are Saddened By Deaths Of Seven

Seven Lose Lives Near Dalton, Michigan, As Thin Ice On Lake Cracks

CHRISTMAS SLED CAUSES TRAGEDY

Mother, Father And Two Young Sons Drowned—Three Rescuers Lose Lives

(International News Service)

DALTON, Mich., Dec. 21.— No brightly-lighted evergreen tree will radiate cheer in the Oman home on this coming Christmas day. In place of the traditional merriment, only a dismal silence will reign.

For today the Oman family counted only one member, three-year-old Gloria, where but a few hours ago there were five. The other four—mother, father and two young sons—were among the seven who perished yesterday when the ice on a nearby lake cracked, plunging them to their cold deaths.

Six Rescuers Perish

Six of the victims died while attempting rescue. The seventh, seven-year-old Orville Oman, was the first on the ice and his fall through the frozen layer precipitated the tragedy

Orville pleaded and pleaded until he persuaded his mother to give him his Christmas gift—a sled. Gleefully the boy ran out to the frozen lake, just a few yards from his home. While his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Oman, watched through a window, the lad scooted out to the center of the lake.

When the ice cracked Mr. and Mrs. Oman ran out in a frantic effort to reach their son. Before they could get to him, however, they, too,

PA NEWC OBSERVES

A visitor told Pa Newc he had never seen a city so systematically decorated for Christmas as New Castle.

Christmas decorations and lighting effects are springing up rapidly all over the city. From now on until Christmas the increase will be many fold. Numerous community trees are already in place about the city, and gaily decorated. The Laurel avenue tree is one that was lighted last night, also the Winter-Highland tree.

New Wilmington has a fine Community Christmas tree on the diamond. It was lighted on Saturday night.

Most of the cities in Western Pennsylvania have street lighting effects for the holidays. But, New Castle seems to have outdistanced all of them this year, with the

Bulbs Being Stolen From Tree Decorations; Police Hunt Culprits

As pretty as the street lighting decorations are, it seems that there are some people, probably boys, who want to carry their pleasure back home with them and to accomplish this purpose have been stealing light bulbs. All along Washington street merchants reported today that bulbs had been stolen from the trees in front of their business houses.

Police have been instructed to watch the trees for the rest of the Christmas season and the first person caught stealing bulbs will be a martyr to the cause of petty larceny for the mayor has promised to be severe.

Not only is the theft of the bulbs a misdemeanor but there is a possible danger attending it, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 33 called attention to the fact that there is a posibility of shock if one comes in contact with an open part of the tree decorations.

All wire used is weather proof wire and insulated against any shock. Once a bulb is taken out it becomes a point of contact and should the street be damp the person coming into contact would act as a conductor to the ground and get the 110 volts.

As for the thieves who are stealing bulbs and in some cases trees, if he comes into contact with the police department the shock handed out by the mayor will be heavier than 110 volts.

Will Ask Pinchot Call Conference On Relief Plan

Senators Harris And Weingartner Express Sentiments Today

OPPOSE CALLING OF NEW SESSION

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Week-end statements by two Western Pennsylvania Senators, both friendly to the Pinchot administration, today led to the belief that members of the General Assembly will return here next week to grapple with a new compromise unemployment relief plan.

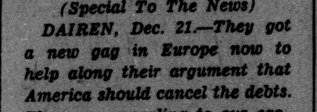
Pittsburgh dispatches quoted Senator Frank J. Harris, Allegheny, as announcing he would ask the governor on Wednesday night to call a conference on a new relief program. Harris' announcement was bolstered by Senator George T. Weingartner, Lawrence, who agreed with Harris that unless an immediate agreement on relief plans is reached, the legislature should adjourn.

Oppose New Session

Harris attacked the Assembly for "political maneuvering" which wrecked the governor's original 19-point plan while Weingartner went on record as opposing the calling of a new special session.

Senator Samuel W. Salus, Philadelphia, last week left the Capitol in disgust after organization leaders refused to agree to his plan to compromise with the executive by deciding on a new session call, the program to embody legislation aiding Philadelphia and the governor's gasoline tax measure, reducing the tax to one cent per gallon for fifteen months.

Meanwhile the opposition program enacted by the legislature and based on a $10,000,000 appropriation from the general fund to poor districts is in the governor's hands. Political observers were practically unanimous in declaring the governor would veto the entire program.



(Special To The News)

DAIREN, Dec. 21.—They got a new gag in Europe now to help along their argument that America should cancel the debts. They are appealing to our egotism (and they figure we are not short on it).

The new gag is: "America won the war, and she should pay. We admit it was America coming in when she did that determined the destiny of the World War. Therefore she is answerable for present European conditions, and should put them right."

Now ain't that a hot one? No matter what you do, you are wrong. If you help 'em lose it you are wrong. If you help 'em win it, you are wrong.

There just ain't any such animal as international "good will," it just lasts till the loan runs out.

Jap Army Moves Toward Chinchow

Japanese Army Clashes With Chinese Troops In Chinchow Area

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN BATTLE

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Dec. 21.—The Japanese army today clashed with large forces of Chinese, as it moved toward Chinchow, last Chinese outpost in Southern Manchuria. Airplanes, bombs, and machine guns were used by both sides in serious fighting as the Chinese began a giant countermove to check the Japanese drive southward.

Reports of the manoeuvers were meager, but, although coming from several points on the mainland, they agreed in stressing the seriousness of the fighting and confirmed word that tens of thousands of Chinese troops, regular and irregular, were in action.

Punitive Expedition

MUKDEN, Dec. 21.—Japanese troops, equipped with heavy artillery and accompanied by a squadron of airplanes flying overhead, set out from here today in a punitive expedition against 7,000 irregular Chinese troops and bandits.

The Japanese forces were headed for Faku and Changwu, northwest of Mukden. Changwu is on the Tahushan-Tungliao branch of the Peiping-Mukden railway, well to the west. Faku is a few miles east of Changwu.

The following communique was made public as the troops left:

"Troops have been ordered to clean up 7,000 irregular Chinese troops and bandits looting and committing attrocities near Faku and Changwu."

Chinese regulars are stationed at both towns, and observers here predicted an almost certain clash with the Japanese.

The spokesman for the Japanese military headquarters here forecast a series of further similar expeditions to make the entire territory safe.

Neutral observers pointed out that Japanese expeditions against bandits already had placed their troops at strategic positions throughout Southern Manchuria, and that the present maneuvers, combined with new undertakings expected within the next few days, would lead to an inevitable clash at Chinchow.

Many predicted that Chinchow would fall into the hands of the Japanese within a week.

Reward For Capture For Bulb Burglars

Council Offers Reward For Persons Caught Tampering With Lights

Although the Christmas trees along East Washington street have only been there a few days it has been reported to city authorities that electric equipment is being removed from the trees by persons unknown to the authorities.

In order to make this practice costly, council today adopted a motion by Councilman Treser offering a reward of $5.00 for the arrest and conviction of any person caught tampering with the electric equipment, such as wire and bulks.

The motion was presented and adopted when the councilmen met in the city building.

McBride Post Ready To Play Santa Claus To Needy Tots Here

Urge That All Requests For Toys Be Received By Tuesday Evening

Take Care Of Six Hundred Requests To Date, With More Toys Available

Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is ready to play Santa Claus to hundreds of children in New Castle and Lawrence county on Christmas eve.

Already toys have been tagged and put up in packages for 600 children, with more requests coming in and more toys available to fill the orders.

Persons knowing of deserving children, whom Santa Claus is apt to miss this year, are requested to turn this information in to the committee not later than Tuesday evening. Most of Wednesday and Thursday will be spent in distributing the toys.

Some requests for assistance have come from distant points, one in particular from Luxor, Pa., on the other side of Butler, while one was received from New Galilee.

Some of the children have asked for underclothing and stockings, showing that they are thinking of practical things in addition to toys and nicknacks. Some of these requests have been filled, but in many more cases the veterans were unable to get the necessary clothing.

As far as possible, the vets have tried to grant the requests made by the kiddies in their letters, giving dolls to the girls, hobby horses, velodipedes, etc., to the boys. A

Mayor's Relief Will Give Baskets Thursday

Plans have been perfected by the Mayor's Relief Committee to give out their Christmas baskets on Thursday, when a little extra supply of food will be given for the Christmas season.

Persons desiring to assist in the basket movement may assist by giving little extra things for the baskets, such as candy, or the like, or they may give baskets themselves and the Relief Committee will see that they are taken care of. Similarly, people wishing to give baskets, and who have no particular person in mind, will be supplied with names or deserving families.

It is the aim of the committee to provide "as much as possible for as many as posible" and the idea is to see that every family in need of help is given something at the Christmas season.

People who know of families which they feel should be taken care of, are asked to write the circumstances to the Mayor's Relief Committee, City Building. All such information will be treated strictly confidential. Persons should sign these statements, however, so as to establish an identifying link.

It is evident that many people are thinking of helping out on the Christmas Basket program as there was not a single contribution received over the week end by the committee.

Contributions are still being received, in addition to the assistance on the Christmas baskets, and in addition, clothing is badly needed, particularly shoes and underclothing. It has been necessary for the committee to purchase many such articles.

In giving baskets, the committee urges that practical baskets be given, modeled along the lines suggested by the Garden Club menus, so that the supply of food received will last more than just Christmas Day providing a feast on that occasion, and a famine in the days following.

SEEK TO HASTEN SENATE ACTION FOR APPROVAL OF DEBT MORATORIUM PLAN

Want Ratification Before Senate Recesses For Holidays

"Farm Bloc" Seeks To Donate Surplus Wheat To Nation's Needy

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—administration, aided by an indifferent Democratic leadership, launched a day and night drive in the senate today to secure ratification of the Hoover war debt moratorium in time to make it a Christmas gift to 13 European debtor nations.

Spurred on by President Hoover, administration leaders planned to hold the senate in session until midnight and again tomorrow to force a vote on ratification before congress recesses. If the moratorium can be brought to a vote, the senate will approve it due to the personal pledges given Mr. Hoover last summer.

There was one fly in the administration ointment. The western "farm bloc" was demanding immediate action on a resolution, authorizing a gift of 40,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat to the American Red cross and other relief organizations. The resolution, originating with Senator Capper (R) of Kansas, was approved by an agriculture sub-committee.

Action is Needed.

This measure will be the first attempt made to provide relief for the nation's hungry. It may lead to considerable debate, since it takes on the appearance of the "dole" and the "direct federal relief" which Mr. Hoover opposes. It will mark, as well, the sole effort made since congress convened to do anything for the hungry and unemployed.

All other measures, including the moratorium, have been designed to aid either the banking structure or to provide relief for Europe.

"We must have action on this relief measure before congress takes its recess," said Capper.

The moratorium meanwhile will provoke much debate. A militant little group, headed by Senators Johnson (R) of California, Norris (R) of Nebraska and McKellar (D) of Tennessee, will fight it every inch.

Accident Occurs On Highway Near Kittanning

YOUNG WOMAN DRIVER OF CAR

(International News Service)

KITTANNING, Pa., Dec. 21.—Steve Starr, of 1403 Wick avenue, Youngstown, O., brakeman for the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, died early today in the Kittanning Hospital of a fractured skull and severe lacerations suffered in an automobile accident.

Starr was fatally injured when an automobile driven by Miss Josephine Coffman, 23, crashed into a stone wall at Garretts Run.

The two men and Miss Coffman were visiting with William Turney, in Garrets Run, and were returning to Youngstown when the accident occurred.

D. L. Fiscus, state highway patrolman, said Miss Coffman did not have a license to drive. He began an investigation of the crash. The girl was slightly injured.

Miss Coffman is reported to live at 1002 Croton avenue, New Castle, Pa.

BANDITS KILL DETECTIVE IN CHICAGO CAFE

Two Girl Companions Slightly Scratched By Bullets—Cafe Is Heldup

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Police Detective James J. Caplis was fatally wounded early today when he played the hero in routing four bandits who attempted to hold up a fashionable cafe.

Caplis and two girls were shot when the robbers invaded the cafe where 100 couples were dancing and ordered the guests to put up their hands. Caplis was dining with a friend and instead of lining up with the others, he ran out onto the dance floor and opened fire.

The robbers returned the fire with shotguns, two slugs striking Caplis and two others hitting Peggy Griggs, 20, wounding her in the arm. Another girl was merely scratched, police said, and was taken to her home before her identity was learned.

The detective was rushed to a hospital where surgeons performed an emergency operation in a fruitless effort to save his life.

Telephone Call Says Virginia Penfield Is Found At Providence, R. I.

MISSING SINCE LAST THURSDAY

Widespread Search Was Under Way For Missing Columbus, O., Heiress

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 21—Virginia Penfield, 19-year-old Columbus heiress, who disappeared in Philadelphia last Thursday has been located at the Naragansett Hotel in Providence, R. I., according to a telephone report to the Penfield home here this afternoon.

The telephone call to the Penifeld home was made by Dr. Arthur Brown, who said that the girl had been suffering from a loss of memory.

According to information received here, Dr. Brown was positive in his identification of the girl as Virginia Penfield.

"She is Virginia Penfield," Dr. Brown told investigators. He said the girl had recovered her loss of memory.

Clare J. Penfield, millionaire chain store proprietor and father of the girl, who has been in Philadelphia conducting a relentless search for his daughter, was reached by telephone immediately.

"I have a hot tip. I can't talk with you now," he was reported to have told William H. Calhoun, his business associate who is aiding in the search for the missing girl from Columbus. Calhoun said that Penfield hung up.

Penfield telephoned a short time later and declared that Virginia had been positively found and identified.

Penfield told Calhoun here that he would go to Providence immediately.

Information given local investigators by Dr. Brown was that the girl was carrying schoolbooks and had in her possession travelers

There was a time he roamed the streets until the night was through, he never went his homeward way till one or maybe two. The night policemen knew him well, the milkman called him Joe, but no more does he do those things, he has a place to go. The preacher spoke a few brief words, the organ played a tune, and straightway merchants selling chairs and tables got a boon. The night he now spends in his home, he whiles the hours away, just reading books and smoking pipes, it's fifty one today.

Kahn Explains Big Securities Before Probers

Otto Kahn, Head Of Private Banking Business, Gives Committee Figures

LOANS TO FOREIGN NATIONS EXPLAINED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Otto Kahn, head of Kahn, Loeb & Co., private banking firm, was the first witness before the senate finance committee this morning when it resumed its investigation into the floating of $10,000,000,000 of foreign securities in the United States. Modestly attired, the international banker and patron of the arts, Kahn apologized for the lack of "presentability" of his report, explaining he had only received notice of his summons late Saturday.

Kahn told the committee his firm was not a bond "distributing" house but engaged in a strictly "wholesale" business.

He was directed to give the list of foreign issues floated by his firm.

The first three he named were two for the Swedish government, $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 on which a profit approximately $250,000 was made. The third loan for the city of Oslo, Norway, for $5,000,000 was an 8 per cent bond with a commission spread of 6 per cent.

Questioned by Senator Couzens (R) of Michigan, multi-millionaire former partner of Henry Ford, as to the "sound public policy" of an issuing bank being the trustee for bonds it floats, Kahn maintained it was desirable for the bank to stand behind the securities it sells.

He declared that an issuing house should have a "continuing trusteeship" for the protection of its clients so as to safeguard them from "undue exactions."

PA NEWC OBSERVES

lighted trees along the curb, as well as the festoon lights overhead.

Looked more like spring time yesterday, than the Sunday before Christmas. Fact is, Pa Newc saw a number of boys playing baseball at a field some distance north of the city.

Last year we had a white Christmas. It's true, there was not a great deal of snow, but you could see it on the ground. Unless the weather man gets busy pretty soon, there's not going to be much to see this year.

It is not often that you see people playing golf in these parts around Christmas time, but Saturday and Sunday found quite a few on the municipal links, in an effort to get their last game in before the weather got too bad. Smacks of Southern Pines or Pinehurst or some of those other famous southern golfing resorts.

"Knuckles down, now, knuckles down!" Pa Newc heard that on the South Side Saturday and looked around between two buildings. There a group of boys were on their knees intent on a game of marbles. Pa proceeded down the street and ran into four more marble games. Is Pa Newc mistaken in believing that this is rather early for the marble season?

Calendars for 1932 are appearing on the walls and desks and it looks as if '31 will not be with us long.

A shepherd dog trotting down North Mercer street, this morning was all decked out in Christmas style. He wore a bright red bow around his neck—and seemed a bit ashamed of his feminine appearance.

The city Christmas tree display on Washington street last night was beautiful. The trees were not hidden by parked automobiles and they presented a pretty sight for pedestrians and motorists.

In the holiday-decorated display windows of three downtown stores today were samples of the guide canes which the city's Lions club will present to the sightless folk of the county at a dinner tomorrow.

Pa Newc peeked into one of Santa Claus' branch storehouses here this morning to find toys everywhere. These same toys by Friday will be in the homes of some fortunate children, providing they act their best between now and Santa's coming.

Bob-Cat Vs. Game Warden In Fight; Bullet Ends It

Thrilling Experience Of Warden Who Shot A Cat

(International News Service)

SANTE FE, N. M., Dec. 21.—Hunters bent on swapping yarns will have to scratch their heads to match this one. The story is related by none other than modest Elliott S. Barker, state game warden, who has an enviable record in these parts for veracity.

Barker was quietly returning to camp at sunset on the Vermejo club property in the northern part of New Mexico when he spied a baby wildcat sprawled out on the limb of a tree, according to his statement attested to before a notary public. One shot and the kitten fell to earth. The game warden strapped it onto the back of his saddle and again was on his way.

He had not traveled far, however, when his horse snorted, lunged, arose on his hind legs and then refused to budge. "My 'old faithful' never before acted like this," said the puzzled Barker to himself.

But suddenly the game warden felt a sharp sting in the region of the base of his spine. Glancing about quickly his eyes met the glaring stare of the baby wildcat strapped to his saddle—one claw was deeply embedded in the back of "old faithful", the other was being sunk still deeper into Barker! Fast thinking was required.

The game warden knew that if he deserted his steed, it would be gone, probably forever, with the bob cat as a rider. Then, too, he would be without transportation back to camp. That wouldn't do. Finally he reached out, grabbed the cat, placed its neck securely under his arm and bore down. In a few minutes the kitten slowly released its claws, relaxed and the glaring eyes closed. A bullet from a pistol ended the drama.

Examination of the wildcat later disclosed that the first bullet had not entered a vital part and had merely stunned the animal.

OLD WAR VETS GO SOUTH IN WINTER

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. Dec. 21—Like the migratory fowls of the northland, ex-servicemen in the U. S. Veterans homes are seeking homes in the south as real winter comes on. But like swallows they will come north again when summer comes, J. L. Solly of the Traveler's Aid Society here explains.

Each fall, Solly says, he is called upon to aid veterans to return to homes in the southern section of the nation. The home at Washington, D. C., is particulraly popular among the veterans now acording to Solly. During the summer months the National Soldier's Home in Kennebec County, Me., is very popular, but with the advent of wintry temperatures numbers of the war vets seek warmer climes.

"Traveling is facilitated for these men in the government homes by railroads which allow them half fare. Most of them are honorably discharged and they are veterans from the Civil War, Spanish-American and the recent World War."

checks. She wore a gold bracelet such as the one Virginia was wearing at the time of her disappearance.

Nervous Breakdown

Philadelphia, Dec. 21.—Virginia Penfield, found at the Narragansett House in Providence, R. I., is suffering from a complete nervous breakdown, her father, Clare J. Penfield, declared this afternoon. She registered there yesterday.

Penfield identified the girl by the travelers checks found in her possession. He prepared to fly to the New England city immediately.

Miss Penfield was reported unconscious.

Police Redouble Efforts

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 21—With only one new clue, police today redoubled their efforts to solve the mysterious disappearance of 19-year-old Virginia Penfield, Columbus, O., heiress and student of the fashionable Mary Lyons school at Swarthmore, near here.

The new clue points to the possibility of a man in the case.

It was furnished by the Rev. J. H. Ricker, a clergyman of Lancaster, Pa. The pastor told police he saw a girl resembling Miss Penfield paging a man in Broad street station here last Thursday afternoon, the day on which Miss Penfield disappeared.

The girl, he said, was in tears and was running up and down the station platform calling a man's name.

Mental Collapse.

The girl's father, Clare J. Penfield, wealthy business man who rushed here by airplane from Columbus, believes she may have a mental collapse from overstudy. He said Virginia may have been calling his name in the station.

"She had a nervous breakdown when she was in high school," he said. "I had the best specialist in nervous troubles in Columbus treat her at that time, and he said that except for the care bestowed on her then she might have lost her mind. The illness was brought on, the doctor said, by overstudy, and he suggested I find some way to keep her out of doors. I bought her a horse and from that time she dated her great fondness for horseback riding."

Watch For Checks

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—One hundred dollar's worth of traveler's checks, drawn on the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh, today were expected by police here to provide a reliable clue to the whereabouts of Virginia Penfield, Columbus, O., heiress, who disappeared as she left the Mary Lyons school at Swarthmore, Pa., for her home.

Banks throughout the nation have been notified by police to communicate with them at once, should any one attempt to cash checks with the serial numbers issued in Philadelphia to Miss Penfield.

Clues By Thousands

Clues by the thousands have poured in on police since the girl's disappearance was broadcast.

The Rev. J. H. Ricker, of Lancaster, Pa., who informed police he saw a girl resembling Virginia paging a man in the Pennsylvania railroad station where she was to have boarded a train for Columbus, today wavered in his identification. He was unable to distinguish the girl from several photographs.

Virginia's father told police he believed the girl has suffered a nervous breakdown from over-exhaustion because of school work and may have possibly suffered a period of amnesia as the result. He was disinclined to believe theories of abduction and kidnaping.

Mrs. H. M. Crist, founder and president of the Mary Lyon school, expressed the belief Miss Penfield's trusting nature made her an easy victim for someone who wanted to rob her.

great quantity of these articles were received by the committee, many of them in very good condition. A touch of paint was all that was needed to make them look like new.

Today and tomorrow will be busy days for the ex-service men, putting the final touches on the plans for distribution. The Spencer Paint & Glass company, in addition to furnishing the paint necessary to recondition many of the articles, has donated the use of their truck to deliver the toys.

Any person knowing of a child whom they would like to see taken care of, is requested to let the committee know at the Toy Mission headquarters, Apple way, in the rear of Eckerd's store, and they will try to see that they are remembered this year.

LORD NELSON'S HOUSE PLACED ON MARKET

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Yet another famous English relic will go to the United States if an ad placed in New York for the sale of Admiral Lord Nelson's home at Albury street, in the Deptford district of London, is taken up.

The famous British admiral, hero of Trafalgar and innumerable other naval engagements during last century, lived at Albury street for many years during his period ashore.

The house is now used as a babies' hospital. Should the sale materialize it will be taken down brick by brick and transported across the Atlantic.

Deaths of the Day

Frederick S. Elleby.

New Castle lost one of her prominent and well beloved residents on Saturday, December 19, at 10:25 p. m. when the Grim Reaper took Mrs. Elizabeth Lutton Matthews, 503 North Jefferson street, a life long resident of the city, to her home beyond, after an illness of more than a year.

Mrs. Matthews was born in New Castle, the daughter of William B. and Jane L. Lutton, and had resided here all her life, marrying Charles Matthews 42 years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Matthews leaves to mourn her loss, three children, Charles, Jr., Marlen and Helen, and a sister, Mrs. H. S. Bennett of Cleveland, O.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock with Rev. P. C. Pearson, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church, officiating. Interment will be made in Graceland cemetery.

ANESTHETIC BETTER THAN ANY NOW USED

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—Dean Langley Porter of the University of California medical school has announced that members of the staff have developed a new general anesthetic which is more rapid and efficient than chloroform, ether or the anesthetic gases, and comparatively free from many of their objectionable actions.

The new anesthetic is of particular interest scientifically because its action was predicted by one of the staff members before it was put to trial and because it is a result of the cooperative work of chemists and physicians from both coasts of the United States. The substance is known as "divinyl oxide."

PLAN BOULDER DAM TO BE BREAK PROOF

(International News Service)

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 21.—The spillways for the $165,000,000 Boulder Dam will be constructed to withstand the highest water velocity known to modern engineers, according to J. L. Savage, chief designing engineer for the U. S. bureau of reclamation.

Water will flow over the spillways at the rate of 182 feet per second. The highest flow now known is 100 feet a second. Tests on concrete to withstand this tremendous pressure have been made to insure against breaks or washouts.

Engineers also plan to line with concrete the four diversion tunnels, through which the waters of the Colorado river will flow while the main dam foundation is poured. Even though the tunnels are bored through solid rock, a three foot concrete lining was ordered as an added precaution.

Something like 5,000 motorcoaches enter London every day, while more than 1,500 use road-sites for picking up and setting down passengers.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS GUESTS AT EVENT

The home of Mrs. Charles Greer on North Jefferson street was the scene of a delightful social event Saturday afternoon, when she received members of the Daughters of 1812 and several of the Gold Star Mothers who were special guests, namely, Mrs. J. A. Cox, Mrs. J. S. Bookwalter, Mrs. W. T. Boyd, Mrs. John Cartwright, Mrs. Edward Anderson, Mrs. Sara Thomas, Mrs. Carrie Wehr and Mrs. Nellie Smith.

When all had gathered, Mrs. W. H. Weinschenk read an unusually interesting paper on "Colonial Christmas" followed by several recitations given by other members in attendance, in keeping with the approaching holiday, Christmas.

As a special feature, a group of young girls which compose the Scrap Book Club appeared in Colonial costumes and gave a novel program consisting of pianc and violin solos, readings and recitations. At an appropriate time, they presented thirteen scrap books they had made, for the Circassone Home, an institution for children. Those who particpated included Martha Brundage, Isabelle Mitchell, Jane Morris, Lenore Emery, Alene Hartzell, and Edith Cavill. Mrs. George D. Morris and Mrs. Nellie Brooks directed the girls.

At the conclusion of the entertainment, dainty refreshments were served, the menu appointments being carried out in keeping with the occasion.

It was with deep regret, that the two real daughters, Mrs. S. E. McCleary and Mrs. Mary McConaghy, the latter of Ellwood City, were unable to attend this event.

The next regular meeting of the Daughters of 1812 will be held January 16.

In New York

Mrs. M. J. Donnelly, 326 East Lincoln avenue left Friday evening for New York where she met her daughter, Miss Jean Donnelly, a student at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass. who is enroute to this city to spend the Christmas holiday season with her parents. They will remain in New York for a few days, returning to this vicinity later in the week.

1929 Five Hundred Club

Members of the 1929 Five Hundred Club who are planning to attend the holiday tureen dinner event scheduled for Tuesday evening, December 29, will get in touch with the hostess, Mrs. J. F. Titus, Edison avenue within the next two days.

BETH SHALOM DINNER IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR

The second annual dinner of the Beth Shalom congregation, held in their center on Boyles avenue, Sunday evening, was a brilliant affair, with covers arranged for seventy-five at beautifully decorated tables, a color scheme of blue and white being carried out.

Mrs. A. Fisher, president of the Beth Shalom Sisterhood, made the opening welcome after which a song "A Tribute to the Sisterhood President" was sung, with Miss Freda Rosenblum of Pittsburgh, leading. She also led in the other pep songs.

Rabbi S. I. Zakuto gave the invocation and after the serving of a delicious menu the grace "Shir Hamaloth" was sung to the tune of Katikvah.

L. Kohn, president of the congregation, acted as toastmaster and introduced Rabbi Zakuto, Dr. Eli Kaplan, Lou Sandler, Lew Miller and Samuel Edelstein, who brought greetings.

Rabbi Carl Manello, Youngstown, Ohio, was the guest speaker and he had as his subject "What is the Purpose of a House of Worship" and he left some inspiring thoughts with his hearers.

Among the out of town guests were Rabbi and Mrs. Manello, Youngstown, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Marcus and daughters, Beaver Falls, Miss Freda Rosenblum and Thelma Weil, Pittsburgh.

HIGHLAND BOOK CLUB LUNCHEON GUESTS

Mrs. E. T. Fenton of Clenmore boulevard pleasingly received the Highland Book Club members in her home on a recent afternoon for a 1 o'clock luncheon. Places marked for a full attendance at the beautifully appointed table where a tasty menu was served.

Later, the usual routine was in progress, and books exchanged.

As special guests the members had Mrs. Minnie Wilson of Mercer, the house guest of Mrs. George Rigby and Mrs. J. C. Dight, who has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. H. C. Harper.

The members will meet again on December 31, with Mrs. H. C. Harper on Wallace avenue.

1930 Hokum Club

The 1930 Hokum Club met in regular session at the home of Esther Taylor, 434 Martin street on a recent evening. A business session was conducted, followed by a treasure hunt, and at the end of the trial, each guest found a present.

A raffle was another feature, with Mary Gilkey as the winner, also a novel contest "thinks on a Christmas tree" was later in progress, the trophies going to Mary Gilkey and Mildred Campbell. The balance of the evening was spent in playing Hokum, the awards being presented to Emma Bobosky and Mary Caravella.

Before departing, lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mary Gilkey, who will receive the club at her home, 15 Robison street, in two weeks.

Evening Party

Miss May Crombie of the Harlansburg road was hostess to a group of friends in her home Saturday evening.

The house was attractively decorated with holiday suggestions, which were also carried out in the refreshments served at the close of the evening.

The principal diversion of the evening was bridge, high score honors going to Howard Nord and Miss Geraldine McClelland. Out of town guests were Howard Kiel and Russell Grannis of Pittsburgh.

In serving refreshments, the hostess was assisted by her sister, Miss Gertrude Cromie.

Entertain Mothers

The girls of the Willing Workers' class of the Third United Presbyterian church entertained their mothers Friday evening in the home of their teacher Mrs. A. Kildoo, on Maryland avenue.

A delicious tureen supper was served at small tables, which were prettily decorated in the Christmas suggestions.

Mrs. G. N. Gibson assisted the hostess in serving and after dinner games and contests were enjoyed and there was an exchange of gifts.

Plans were made for the January meeting.

WELCOME, POWER MEN

FOLLOWING many weeks of remodeling, the Pennsylvania Power Building on the Public Square is now housing the entire executive staff and the general accounting staff of the company. Bringing these people to New Castle is the last step in making the company a Pennsylvania corporation in fact, with New Castle as the headquarters of it.

New Castle is delighted to welcome these newcomers. They are now a part of New Castle, their company is now a Pennsylvania company, and this city now becomes the operating nerve center of a utility company that has established itself as being a step ahead of its competitors.

It is to be hoped that the staff officers and the accountants who were moved here from Ohio find as much pleasure in coming, as New Castle has in welcoming them.

SPECIAL SESSION RELIEF FIASCO

Members of the Pennsylvania State Legislature are in a recess for the holidays, before returning to Harrisburg for the conclusion of the special session. Just before the recess, strenuous effort was made by Pinchot and anti-Pinchot forces from Philadelphia, to get together on some program that would provide at least a measure of relief for the unemployed and needy of the state. The governor and some of the Philadelphia representatives were reported agreed. But the plan was blocked by political "leaders." The legislature recessed without anything being done in the way of providing for relief.

Now, it is understood that there are conferences brewing here and there in the state in an effort to make some agreement upon a plan for state relief, that will be approved when the legislature resumes after Christmas.

It is certainly the temper of the people of the state that there must be a compromise at Harrisburg. The special session was called for the purpose of providing relief for the unemployed. The fact that Governor Pinchot's plan was not approved, and that the plan of the anti-Pinchot legislators was not approved does not allow of a situation where the special session is to be adjourned with nothing accomplished. There is certainly a compromise basis, and it must be worked out, and speedily at that.

The special session has already cost the state some $400,000. Politics, or no politics, the legislators had best not allow the costly special session to adjourn permanently with nothing accomplished in the way of relief for which the call was issued.

FROM OAR TO OIL

Shipbuilding figures compiled by Lloyd's show that of ocean-going ships now under construction 1,459,595 tons will be propelled by internal combustion engines as compared with 1,366,809 tons to be driven by steam.

This is the first time motor marine tonnage has been greater than steam tonnage. The fact opens a long vista of restropect and invites conjecture as to the future of shipbuilding.

The power has not only made its advent on the high seas, but is firmly established there. All indications point to its being destined to expand still further. Here is a new and phenomenal accession to the evolution of maritime propulsion. It is a long step from the primitive paddle to the marine motor.. It is no wonder that many thoughtful observers are assigning to the last departure a place of decisive significance.

The indubitable success of the maritime motor does not, however, presuppose that steam is to be cast into the discard. The discovery of Fulton will not yet yield to the invention of Diesel. The general trend of invention has been less characterized by the displacement of one process by another, than by the simultaneous use of methods essentially different.

It was many years before sails were virtually eliminated by steam. Were it possible to trace navigation to its primeval state it would doubtless be found that centuries elapsed before the oar gave precedence to the sail. Long after the sail was adapted to sea-going craft the oar remained an auxiliary source of motive power for that craft.

After the oar, the sail. After the sail, the steam engine. After the steam engine, the internal combustion motor. After the marine motor, what?

AN INVADING ARMY

A foreign army of 500,000 recruited on the southern coast of France, is preparing to invade America. Lest the fear of being called upon to repel this invader sets you awry, let it be known that the army is one of parasites to join the fight against one of America's greatest insect pests—the corn borer.

The European corn borer has become a serious threat against one of our greatest Agricultural crops. Appearing first a few years ago in New England, New York and Ontario, this pest has gradually made its way westward despite heroic attempts to stop its march, until now it is entrenched in the very heart of the corn-belt. The strictest methods of quarantine are proving of doubtful value inasmuch as the borer is continually breaking the lines.

All bureaus of the Department of Agriculture are engaged in waging defensive warfare against the corn borer. For some time the Bureau of Entomology has been active in searching out the borer's habits and to find, if possible, its natural enemies in the insect world.

The natural habitat of the borer is southern Europe where it has many enemies that prey upon it. Fifteen species of these have been collected by laboratory culture in sufficient quantity to start the insect war in this country and the battle will soon be raging on the corn borer front.

At the same time the Department of Agriculture has been attempting to produce strains of corn that might prove tolerant to the pest as well as research work to determine the effect of various cropping methods.

None of these has proved effectual in preventing the borer's persistent encroachment upon a major crop, eighty per cent of which goes into livestock feed.

So, it is fight fire with fire, insect against insect, and the half million entomological army will be a welcome reinforcement to the human battalions struggling to overcome one of man's persistent enemies. —The Green Bay Press-Gazette.

All Of Us

Two Words
Ironic, Sneering, Ridiculing
Good for Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

You are racing along at top speed, talking about the most fascinating subject in the world—yourself.

You began slowly, started modestly, keeping well within the speed limits, obeying all the stop signals.

But something happened. The man who listened to you showed interest. He seemer to CARE about what you were saying. His interest intoxicated you. You threw all caution to the winds, dropped all reserve, began to talk about yourself, praised yourself highly, told him what people thought about you, boasted about yourself most shamelessly.

You didn't notice that he began to be bored. You didn't see him look at his watch three times. You didn't see the impatient look on his face. You didn't see that amused smile creep across his face. No, you were all wrapped up in yourself and you had eyes for nothing, ears for your own words alone. . . . So it was a terrible surprise to hear those two shocking words that seem to have become the slogan of America. You didn't expect them, but out they came.

"Oh, YEAH?" said your traitorous friend.

"OH, YEAH?" he said to you.

Quietly he drawled it, with a rising inflection on that second word. It was a slap, a jeer, a jolt, a bucket of cold water all over your new suit—and it brought you to your senses. You didn't like it, for a moment you hated him, but what he said was good for you. It staggered you, but it shook the egotism right out of you. It was just what you needed.

I like those two words. That is, at moments when I don't need them, I like them. They are powerful medicine, like strychnine or digitalis, but they are good for what ails me. They are good for all arrogance, good for all arrogance, good for all smugness, good for all self-praise. Once our frank friends told us to tell THAT to the marines! Now they say, "Oh, yeah!"—and that's the end of our self-puffery and our complacence.

Rude, infuriating, eye-opening, stimulating—those are two of the most useful words in the English language today.

"Oh, yeah?"

Yeah!

"TOO MUCH TALK"

Some of the crowd talk too much, perhaps you do, about experiences that seem more serious every time they are repeated.

Often men who are members of a fishing or a hunting party tell things that happened that it might have been better to keep quiet.

These fellows think it a good joke to tell of some of the laughable antics of a member of their group.

If conditions were known they might not seem so detrimental to the object of the stories.

But when related, humorously intended, in the presence of a man's wife, they appear anything but funny to her.

Then there is the fellow who cannot keep to himself any narrow escapes from injury that a member or members of the party may have had.

Always in the future when the man suggests another similar trip there is objectiion from his wife.

Either she pictures him in a ridiculous role or as being subjected to injury or possible death.

"Too much talk" is generally laid to the women, but some men's tongues wag too often and too extensively—look out you are not one of them.

THAT SNOW-SHOVELING JOB

A lot of folks out early after the snow cleaning their walks. Then after the drifting they cleared them again. But there were a lot who did not make any attempt to remove the snow. And, it might be added, most of the properties where the snow is still on the walk do not belong to "widow women." Several instances have been cited the Globe where there is snow in front of homes where there are good, strong athletic youngsters, who nowadays do not even have to carry in wood or coal, or carry out ashes—and really need the exercise. Dear Fred: Yesterday a lady and I were discussing how persons should live after they have reached a certain age.

She said: "Well, I am 60 now, so I think I should live the rest of my life in my own way. If I want to smoke, bob my hair, and go to parties, that is nobody's business but my own. I have devoted my life so far to others, so why can't I use the few remaining years to do as I please? The others think I have to be watched over the same as if I were a litle child, but I am going to show them. From now on I will devote my life to pleasing myself."

But we can't do that. There is always someone, no matter how young or old we may be, that we have to look out for. We may not realize it, but it is true. The ideal state is to devote your entire life to just living—that is, just living for yourself alone. So far I have found but one person that can approach that state. He didn't begin until after he was 30; has no relatives to my knowledge, and receives a pension from the Canadian government. But he has to work part time because the pension is not quite adequate to cover his living expenses. So you see, he is not entirely free to do as he pleases. There may be some that have attained the ideal state, but I have yet to find them. C. W. P.

SOME DAY

(From My Old Scrap Book)

Ole Bill Prosser use' to say,
"I'll do this thing or that some day;
Some day I'll fix up that there fence.
An' fix it good—spare no expense."
Kep' sayin' that, as sure's you're born,
Till stock broke through an' ate the corn.
Bill's stable door was rottin' out—
In fact, had most gone up th' spout,
An' lots of times I'd hear Bill say,
"I'll fix that plaguey thing some day."
But never did till it fell through
An' hurt a horse an' cow or two.
Bill's wife she never went nowhere
Because she had no clothes to wear;
An' when she'd mention it, he'd say
"I'll dress you right up fine, some day."
Bill bought them clothes, as sure as sin—
The ones that she was buried in.

Now friends, jes' lay aside all jokes;
I take no stock in "some day" folks;
The time to do things, I allow,
Is not some day, but now—right now!

Uncertainty As To Taxation Continues Despite Message

Country Expects Compromises To Be Effected Before Revenue Bill Is Finally Enacted By Congress To Meet Unusual Conditions

Compromises are generally expected as a result of the budget message of President Hoover, supplemented by suggestions from the treasury by Secretary Mellon. It is believed that the increases in taxation for a limited period of two years are wise, while the suggestion is made that widening the tax basis will bring home to the people the uncertainty that any extravagance in congress must be paid for by all citizens. It is believed that the Democratic house will offer a substitute measure as a basis for compromise.

"When matters come to a vote," thinks the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS (Ind. Rep.), "the probability is that some in both parties will be found standing together for the support of the country substantially on the lines which the administration has laid down." Observing that the president urges "the revenue measure of 1924 as a guide in revising the tax schedules," the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE (Rep.) comments: "This law did, to be sure, put a somewhat greater burden on the class that now almost entirely supports the government, but at the same time it tapped a multitude of indirect sources of taxation, providing a much broader and more stable base for the tax structure, and in today's circumstances it would undoubtedly yield a much handsomer return than is at present available."

"The budget message shows the nation fortunate in being able to meet the situation with a minimum of burdens," says the OAKLAND TRIBUNE (Rep.), while the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS (Ind.) feels that "the chances are that the president has arrived at the most satisfactory conclusion after considering all angles," and the ASBURY PARK PRESS (Ind. Dem.) points out that objection to the program "arise from diametrically opposed quarters," and "indicate that the president has charted a middle course that promises more than many of the more radical substitute programs that have been suggested." The DES MOINES TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.) advises: "Even though there be some shock at first, the public will be the gainer by having its real program put up before it as this tax program does it." The CLEVELAND NEWS (Rep.) sees as "the cheering point in the tax program," the fact that "the proposed emergency measures are to run but two years," since "it indicates a faith in the recuperative powers of this country, shared equally by government and industry."

"What better time than during a situation such as the present political and the recent industrial one," ask the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM (Ind. Dem.) "could be found for going back to the elementals of democracy and building a system of taxation that will fit the theory of political equality? * * * The income tax has been a happy arrangement for most of the years of its existence, because the place where it begins is above the heads of the larger portion of the populace. Now that the authorities purpose lowering it about half way to the bottom, there will be fists shaken in the air, thunders of vituperation and verbal barrages without end. And all because they never have been taxed as citizens of a democracy to support their government." As the DAYTON DAILY NEWS (Ind. Dem.) suggests, "it reminds us that there is a federal government, in whose efficiency and economy we have a vital money interest." The OMAHA WORLD-HERALD (Ind.) remarks: "It is a conclusive lesson on the necessity for thrift and economy in government, and one that must be studied and applied in every school district, city and town, county and state." The SAN ANTONIO EVENING NEWS (Ind.) observes "general agreement that exemptions will be lowered so that everybody will pay some taxes."

"Both the administration and the opposition in the house," according to the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST (Dem.), "are really searching for a painless method of extracting money from the individual and the corporation to pay for the government. There is no such method known to man. The new taxation will hurt more than the old, but the old hurts too. If you have income prepare to share it now generously with the national government." The CHARLOTTE NEWS (Dem.) believes congress has "the most aggravating problem of the sort that it has faced in half a century."

"The Mellon method, however painful," in the judgment of the NEW YORK SUN (Ind.), seems as scientific as circumstances permit. If there is a basic fault in it, it is that of not collecting from a greater number of persons. Nothing would be better than to have every earner in the United States realize the condition to which his or her government has been brought by extravagance. In the period of false values a relative few paid the cost of running the country; the others did not care what the bill was. But, even if the low brackets are not very low, the nuisance taxes should remind the people that the fiddling must be settled for. Bureaucracy and abuses piled up the bills to the point where the government could not pay from current revenue. Let this be remembered if the Mellon medicine has a bitter taste."

"Unfortunately," says the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR (Ind.), "this crisis climaxes on the eve of a national election. It is inescapable that it will be faced in a spirit of political partisanship. Tax increases are unpopular, especially in a time of general depression. The Democratic organization in the house will naturally seek, for the sake of advantage in the campaign that is soon to open, to place upon the shoulders of the Republican administration the burden of responsibility for the tax increase proposal and for the necessity of demanding it. The interests of the people call for a treatment of the matter in a non-partisan spirit, in a spirit of wisdom and consideration for the public welfare."

The revenue measure, in the opinion of the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL (Ind.), "reveals the president's aloofness from actualities." Attacking the increased taxation as proposed, the ATLANTA JOURNAL (Dem.) advises that "the Democratic and liberal forces of congress will doubtless find something better to propose." The DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT (Dem.) contends that "it is now up to congress to find a sane and economical, sound way out of the difficulties," and the PASADENA STAR-NEWS (Rep.) stresses "the need of systematic scientific study of public finances, of taxation systems and of governmental budgets." The MILWAUKEE SENTINEL (Rep.) warns: "There should be no rushing through of great tax increases that may defeat their own purpose and impede the normal recovery of business which in the last analysis is the only real and permanent unemployment relief." The MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS (Dem.) suggests that "a combination of the administration and house proposals may lead to the adoption of a comprehensive program of real benefit." This thought also comes from the SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS (Ind.), while the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER (Ind. Dem.) thinks that "the country will give the Democrats encouragement to dig into the situation, and wish them God-speed in shaping up 'something better' than the administration program."

Economy as the best means of fighting the deficit is the remedy indorsed by the CHICAGO TRIBUNE (Ind. Rep.), the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES (Ind.), the BALTIMORE EVENING SUN (Ind. Dem.) and the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL (Ind.).

LIFE IN CONVERSATION

Of little things our lives are made,
All conversation proves this so:
Brown talks about the building trade,
Black of the latest show.
While mothers all the world wide round
Boast if their babies gain a pound.

Hark to the chatter everywhere
Fashioned of human hopes.
Some one a new hat has to wear,
Somebody's child elopes
Somebody stops us just to say
Somebody's mother died today.

Those who love gardens when they meet
Will sit and talk for hours,
And their experience repeat
With certain shrubs and flowers,
While fisherman must talk about
The cunning wisdom of the trout.

Philosophers in realms remote
Drawn from the world apart,
The cold, harsh facts of logic quote
And miss the human heart.
For life to most of us appears
A blend of passing smiles and tears.

New Federal Corrupt Practices Act Will Carry "Sharp" Teeth

Nye Campaign Fund Committee Asks Congress To Enact New Legislation

Senators Spend Six Times As Much As Salaries To Obtain Coveted Seats

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Aroused by revelations that candidates for the Senate in 1930 spent 15 times as much as the combined salaries for the six year term, the Nye campaign fund committee today asked Congress to enact a new and drastic federal corrupt practices act with enough "teeth" to eliminate slush funds and "bought" elections.

The proposed law would place a limit of $5,000,000 on expenditures in behalf of a presidential candidate, a $250,000 limit on candidates for a presidential nomination, a $50,000 limit in senatorial elections and a $10,000 limit on candidates for the house. Violations of these limitations would keep the guilty candidate's name off the ballot or make him ineligible to hold the office. Prison terms would await other violators of the law.

The committee proposed these drastic regulations to prevent election coruption and maintain American democracy.

The report was signed by Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, Dale (R) of Vermont, Dill (D) of Washington and Wagner (D) of New York. Senator Patterson (R) of Missouri, did not approve it.

The bill first proposed a new joint committee on elections, comprising five senators and five representatives, to whom all expenditures would be reported. It would be authorized to investigate all slush fund charges.

Some of the new provisions would:

1—Direct every candidate for a federal office to have but one agent for the collection and expenditure of all funds.

2—Compel frequent public reports on all gifts, expenditures, loans and unpaid bills by candidates for federal offices.

3—Prohibit collection of funds within 11 days of an election.

4—Require receipts for all expenditures exceeding $10.

5—Require those contributing $100 within a year or $25 at one time to make personal reports to the congressional committee.

6—Provide for drastic punishment of secret, deputized, or fake contributors.

7.—Limit candidates for congress to a total of $500 in traveling expenses.

8.—Compel publication of all expenditures by candidates for a presidential nomination, with a maximum limit of $250,000.

9.—Limit presidential and vice presidential nominees jointly to an expenditure of $5,000,000 in any election.

10.—Procide a limited number of purposes for which political funds may be expended.

The bill places primaries directly within the term "election," citing the minority decision of the supreme court in the Newberry case to support this recommendation. It would prohibit national banks or corporations making contributions in a federal election. It would forbid interstate contribution of funds. It would limit the expenditures of national, senatorial and congressional committees during the odd years.

Kin Of General Butler Seeking To Divorce Wife

Charles N. Butler, Jr., Relative Of "Fiery" General, Has Martial Troubles

(International News Service)

MEDIA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Suit for divorce was filed in the Delaware county court here today by Charles N. Butler, Jr., a relative of Gen. Smedley D. Butler, against his wife, the former Margaret Broomall, a daughter of Judge John M. Broomall, 3d, of this county. The libel was filed before Judge Broomall on Saturday but was left unsigned. President Judge W. Roger Fronefield signed the document today.

In the libel Butler charged his wife with desertion, cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to the person.

Meanwhile, Butler was ordered to pay his wife $19 a week for the support of herself and their 3-year-old son, when he was arraigned before Judge Fronefield today on charges of desertion and non-support brought by Mrs. Butler in a suit filed several days ago. Butler also was ordered to post bond of $1000.

Jurors Discharged At Opening Session

Only One Case Remained To Be Taken Up When Court Convened Today

Following the selection of a jury in the arson case against Mrs. Tamen Nahas at court this morning, Judge R. L. Hildebrand, discharged all other jurors called for this week. In discharging the jurors Judge Hildebrand announced that there were no other cases to be taken up at this term of court. The outcome of the case against Mrs. Nahas will largely determine what will be done with the case against her husband, Albert Nahas, who was also charged with arson.

When the panel of jurors for this week was summoned, it was believed that there would be sufficient cases to take up the time of the court for two weeks. However there were a number of pleas, previous to the opening of the court, so that only about 35 cases went before the grand jury. Such rapid progress was made in the trial of cases last week, that they were all finished with the exception of the one case taken up this morning.

City To Install Bank Street Light

Installation To Be Made As Bridge Lights Are Turned Off

When council met in council chambers, municipal building today, council adopted a recommendation presented by Councilman Reeves whereby a 250 candlepower light will be placed at the intersection of Bank street and Diamond Way.

Reeves explained that the Carnegie Steel company has furnished current for the lights on the South Jefferson street bridge but lately the lights have not been illuminated. Property-owners in the section asked that a light be placed at the spot agreed upon.

It was stipulated that when conditions become better and the lights on the bridge are turned on the Bank street light will be discontinued.

Benefit Grid Game Receipts All In

Total Receipts From Game Were $771.34, Treasurer McClung Reports

Total receipts from the benefit football game played at Taggart field, two weeks ago, for the benefit of the school children of New Castle and Union township, amounted to $771.34, according to the final statement rendered City Treasurer L. W. McClung today. Of this amount, the Union Township schools will receive ten per cent.

There were absolutely no expenses for the game, everything having been contributed.

Several Accidents Are Reported Here

Damage Is Done To A Number Of Machines In Street Collisions

J. H. Brodbeck of West Pittsburg was enroute east on East Washington street at Apple Way this morning, as a truck of the Cudahy Packing company driven by Andy Yohman of Youngstown came south on Apple Alley to the northbound street car track on Washington street and appeared to stop for the other machine to pass. Instead it kept on going leaving Mr. Broadbeck nothing to do but run into the truck or hit a car parked at the side of the street.. He hit the parked machine causing damage to his own and the machine that was parked.

Leroy Broadbent of Youngstown, Ohio, was enroute north on Atlantic avenue at the curve at Burke's store as several machines were going south and he was forced into a car bearing Pennsylvania license PL453, which was parked at the side of the street. Some damage was done.

Dr. Charles Flannery of 24 East Grant street, was enroute north on Grimes street and made the stop at East Long avenue, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 9843K going west on East Long avenue turned into Grimes street and the machines came together, some damage being done to both machines.

Menus From Basket List Are Outlined

How to make the suggested basket outlined by the Garden Club, provide three meals a day for a family of five for one week, is told in the following menu suggestions.

This includes the making of one's own bread, the recipe for which is given as follows:

Bread (five hours to make and bake.)

24½ pound sack flour,

Half cup of lard or one cup of olive oil.

One cup sugar,

Half cup salt,

Half or large package of yeast (5c)

In the morning, soften yeast with about half pint of water. Add to other ingredients with enough luke warm water to make a soft dough. Knead for 15 minutes. Set to raise double. Make out in loaves, 13 to 15. Put in pans and let raise double. Bake one hour or more.

Monday's Menu

Breakfast. One cup of rice, soaked in cup cold water over night. Drain in the morning, and add two quarts boiling water with one tablespoonful of salt. Boil fast for half an hour. Drain in colander, pour one quart of hot water over it. Return to kettle to dry off a moment. Eat with milk as cereal.

Dinner: Wash and pare five large potatoes, take off outside leaves of one head of cabbage (save for soup.) Cut csabbage into eight pieces and boil with potatoes and three thin slices of slat pork for about 40 minutes.

Pare and slice eight apples, cook with one cup cold water until soft. Add quarter cup of sugar. Serve hot with bread.

Supper: Bean Soup.

One pint of navy beans soaked over night. In the morning, drain, add two quarts of cold water. Brown in two slices of salf pork, one sliced onion, one potato, and the cabbage leaves left from dinner. Add beans, cooking slowly from three to four hours. If too thick, a little water may be added.

Tuesday's Menu

Breakfast: Mush and Milk.

One cup of cornmeal, cooked with four cups of water and one teaspoonful of salt for three hours. Cook the day before and reheat.

Dinner: Macaroni and tomatoes.

One pound macaroni, broken in small pieces. Cook in boiling salted water about 20 minutes. Drain and pour over cold water to harden it. Brown three slices finely chopped salt pork. Add one pint tomatoes and heat to boiling point, then stir into hot macaroni and serve.

Mashed turnips. Boil eight pared turnips in hot salted water until soft. Mash and add two slices pork that have been diced and browned.

Supper: Cabbage soup.

Cut fine two slices pork, one onion, one potato, one carrot, and brown. Add one-half head of cabbage, finely chopped. Cover with two quarts cold water and boil slowly until vegetables are soft. Salt if necessary.

(The remaining menus will be given tomorrow.)

Road Contractors Once Received But $10 For Each Mile

But Those Days Were Back In 1825 And Are Gone Forever

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Papers of the Hanover and Carlisle Turnpike Road Company recently received by the Division of Archives, State Library, show that in 1825 a contractor received $10 a rod for the construction of "that part of the road from the Negro cabins to Carlisle."

The manuscripts are to be repaired by experts and added to the approximately 4,000 papers now in the Division of Archives giving the history of turnpikes in Pennsylvania.

With more adequate space available in the library's quarters in the Education building, the immense collection of Provincial papers, Revolutionary War muster rolls, minutes of the Provisional council, county papers and immigrant lists, birth, marriage and death records will be more easily accessible for the public.

Cocke was aloft 21 hours 34 minutes and 15 seconds. In addition he claimed the altitude record of 3,500 feet and the distance record of 400 miles traveled during the flight.

UNIONTOWN MAY CLOSE SCHOOLS

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21.—Possibility of schools here being closed after January 1 is being seriously discussed by officials, following a survey of municipal finances.

Funds on hand, members of the board of education said, will not permit operation through next month. Two schemes to avert the closing have been proposed. One is a voluntary salary cut for teachers, the other an appeal to deliquent taxpayers to settle up last year's assessments.

BLOWN FIFTY FEET BY GAS EXPLOSION

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—Robert Dowler and Kermit Grimm, eighth-grade school youths at Alepo, are expected to recover from injuries received from an oil tank explosion near their home which was caused when one of the youths shoved a lighted lantern into a vent hole on a large oil tank to see what was in the tank.

The two were blown almost 50 feet by the force of the explosion, which ripped the steel top and bottom from the 100-barrel tank.

The Dowler youth was the more seriously injured. Accumulated gas ignited from the wick of the lantern caused the explosion.

NEIGHBORS' SHOT WOUNDS YOUTH

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 21.—Attempting to enter a house, he believed his home, Robert Rowe, 19, of Bergholz, O., was probably fatally shot by Matthew Spicher, 54, mine superintendent. Rowe is in a Canton, O., hospital. Spicher, awakened in the night, saw a man climbing the porch of a neighbor's home and shot him. The climber proved to be another neighbor who said he thought he was home, couldn't get in and decided to test upstairs windows.

SCHOOL TAXES ARE CUT IN WHEELING

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 21.—School taxes here have been reduced 10 cents per $100 valuation, the board of education announced, effecting a saving of some $70,000 to taxpayers in 1932. The cut automatically shelved plans for construction of a new high school for negro students.

STATE EDUCATORS PLAN CONVENTION

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21.—Educators from all sections of the state will be in Pittsburgh December 28 to 30 for the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

First sessions will be held Dec. 28 in Schenley high school with other sessions scheduled for Carnegie Institute, Frick Training School and the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind.

LOST TRACE OF WEDDING

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 21—Hulda Maria Swanson Durselen, 53, sells newspapers here because she could not prove in court recently that she married John Durselen, sea-farer, 21 years ago on the high seas before a justice of peace. She lost a claim for Durselen's $8,925.78 estate because fate conspired against the evidence she may have had. The Yosemite sank several years ago, and the logbook on which the marriage might have been recorded was lost.

Lauds Efficacy Of Bicarbonate Of Soda

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The following letter from a reader confirms some statements I made a few weeks ago in this column:

"Dear Dr. Clendening: You owe me $1.35. Why? Because it represents the price of having your article on soda bicarbonate framed and hung on the wall. All that has kept me very much alive is that same gift of the gods—bicarbonate of soda. Now when people threaten to have me locked up as a nitwit for using so much of it, I shall simply point to your article and beg them to peruse it. If that does not stop their chattering ferocity, they can take their paper dolls and go home. From the moment I read your article, I became a free woman, and they may do their worst whilst I go on imbibing the only thing that is of the slightest good for dyspepsia in any form. As I find it.) I thank you.

"Would you please be good enough to write an article on aspirin, some time soon? I am anxious to know your ideas on that famous remedy, also. It is to me the twin of bi-carb, for it is the only thing that has EVER done me any good so far as adhesions of muscles under my knees is concerned, though I have spent thousands of dollars on serums, orthopedic surgeons, arthritis specialists, etc. The count stands: Five cents worth of aspirin—FINE; $5,000 worth of above named—00000."

The article on aspirin shortly followed the one on soda bicarbonate, and to a certain extent confirmed my correspondent's idea. I certainly would not advise any arthritis sufferer to depend on aspirin alone. But at least in this letter we have evidence of one case in which aspirin is the only remedy that gave relief. Its use can do no harm in such cases, and it certainly has the power of reducing pain and discomfort.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

M. E.: "The bottom of my feet are broken out in white blisters, all swollen and so sore I can hardly walk. Can you please tell me what it is and what to do to cure them?"

Answer: This sounds very much like the well-known athlete's foot. I would suggest for treatment a preliminary use of ammoniated mercury ointment, and after that the use of Whitefield's ointment.

* * *

M. de M.: "A man here has tuberculosis. We are all over 50 years old. He milks the cow but it is not tested for tuberculosis. My question is, can we get it from him or using the milk and can he give it to the cow?"

Answer: The danger of contracting tuberculosis after 50 years of age is considered very slight. As regarding the man milking the cow, it is a general principle that all people who are food handlers or are in contact with sources of food should be free from contagious diseases.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Femine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

GRAB BAG

What is the color of Finland's flag?

What state is the most densely populated?

Whaat is the area of the swamps and wet lands of the United States?

Correctly Speaking—

"Superior" or "inferior" should never be limited by a than clause, but always by a phrase. Say "It was superior from every point of view to the lathe previously used," not "It was superior from every point of view than the lathe previously used."

Today's Anniversary

On this day, in 1620, the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, Mass.

Today's Horoscope

Persons born on this day are original, bold, brave and somewhat politic.

Answers to Foregoing Questions

1. Finland's new flag is white with a blue cross.

2. Rhode Island is the most densely populated, with an average of 566 inhabitants per square mile.

3. The swamps and wet lands of United States have a total area of 79,055,023 acres.

Eighty Seven Bills In Congress Call For Veterans Aid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—In spite of many promises that no further demands would be made upon the federal treasury in behalf of veterans, 87 bills for their relief are now pending before the new congress.

Most expensive, so far as the immediate future is concerned, are those relating to adjusted compensation. There are 24 such bills, and a considerable number of these call for immediate payment of the full face value of veterans' certificates, while most of the rest propose suspending interest payments of those who have borrowed on their certificates.

Cost Is Enormous.

Legislation enacted last spring permitting service men to borrow up to 50 per cent of the value of their certificates had cost the treasury $1,152,000,000 up to Sept. 30. An additional $200,000,000 will be loaned before the end of the fiscal year, the administration estimates, but if all veterans should ask for the money due them the government would need to pay out $577,000,000.

This indicates that payment of the full face value, if Congress should prove it, would cost the government another $1,600,000,000.

Sixteen bills propose pensions for widows or widows and children of world war veterans. Seventeen others would liberalize the hospitalization provisions of the present law or provide new hospitals. One proposes payment of allowances for dependents of a veteran while he is in the hospital. Another would provide for hospitalization of veterans of the Confederate Army and Navy.

Expenditures Now A Billion

Six measures provide for more liberal administration of veterans' insurance laws.

Creation of a judical tribunal to consider appeals from rulings of the administrator of veterans' affairs is suggested.

Expenditures for veterans' relief, exclusive of adjusted compensation loans, will amount to $1,072,064,527 under existing laws, according to the estimate of the Budget Bureau.

Firemen Save Home Attacked By Flames

Union Township House Is Damaged $600; Cause Of Blaze Is Unknown

Using city water, central and sixth ward firemen saved a frame building in Union township early Sunday after flames of unknown origin started on the first floor and threatened to level the building to the ground. City firemen responded at six a. m. Sunday.

Firemen reported the loss was $500 to the structure and $100 to contents.

The house, property of Mrs. D. Hannon, and located on West Washington street extension, had been vacant for some time, firemen learned. A cottage on an adjoining lot was also saved. Firemen report they learned someone had entered the Hannon place recently and probably had slept there, setting the building on fire. The flames are believed to have started under a stairway on the first floor.

EPILEPTIC KILLED IN FALL ON STAIR

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 21.—Peter Turrivec, 42, auto body builder, was found dead at the foot of a flight of steps in his home, 200 Kiehl street, early yesterday by members of his family. Coroner H. C. McCarter reported the man died from a fractured skull received in a fall down the stairs after being stricken by an attack of epilepsy.

AUCTIONED OFF A TRUNK LOAD OF GEMS

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 21.—A used locked trunk offered at an auction sale for $8.50 did not appear a bargain to most bidders but Leon Vilbert took a chance on the "contents unseen."

When he broke the lock, Vilbert found old silver, tapestries and coins valued at $2,500.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Check Up On Habits Of Children

Desirable. Practices. Listed To Aid In Training Tots

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Below are listed a number of desirable habits for children. If your child is under school age, you may be interested in reading this list of habits with a view to working toward their cultivation now or by and by. If your child is six or older you will want to ask yourself how nearly he has acquired these habits. Take a pencil and rate your child. If the habits is so well established that it is as regular and certain as night is to follow day, rate that habit 5; if never done, 0; if done rarely, 1; if more often, 2; if half the time, 3; if four-fifths of the time, 4. Your child may desire to make a rating of himself or to work out a rating with you, of his habits.

Here is the list, as borrowed from the pamphlet prepared by Mrs. Myers: 1, uses tooth brush regularly; 2, washes hands before meals without being told; 3, bathes regularly; 4, drinks proper quantity of milk.

5, Drinks proper quantity of water; 6, does not handle food; 7, eats vegetables without complaint; 8, has good habits of elimination.

9, Sleeps proper number of hours each night; 10, waits upon himself; 11, dresses and undresses himself; 12 is careful in crossing street; 13, never plays in the street.

14, Is orderly in hanging up clothes in bedroom; 15, is orderly in putting away play and work materials; 16, puts cap, coat, rubbers, etc., into proper place on entering house; 17, does not tattle.

18, Shares his possessions; 19, is agreeable when he cannot have his own way; 20, is truthful; 21, does not cry upon slight physical injury.

22, Submits to first aid without crying or flying into a rage; 23, shows courage in respect to dental treatment; 24, is not cowardly when unjustly attacked; 25, controls himself when angry.

26, Is kind to younger and weaker children; 27, is respectful toward aged persons; 28, is not a bully; 29, does not tease other children just to annoy them; 30, does not laugh at others mistakes.

31, Does not take or use property of others without their consent; 32, restores lost property to rightful owner on own initiative; 33, does not destroy or deface property; 34, returns borrowed property promptly; 35, anticipates wants and does not borrow.

36, Is systematic in saving money; 37, is reverent during grace or prayer; 38, does assigned tasks on time; 39, does assigned tasks without complaint.

40, Promptly follows commands without their being repeated; 41, is a good loser; 42, is a graceful winner; 43, faces his auditors.

44, Expresses himself clearly; 45, expresses himself without shyness; 46, shows no fear of thunderstorms; 47, shows no fear of animals.

48, Shows no fear of darkness. Add other habits and check in like manner. Let no parent attempt to develop a large number of these habits at one time if she wishes to be successful.

* * *

In developing a good habit, use propaganda to help get started. Note anything that seems effective. Note ways which were employed in giving satisfaction following success. Record exceptions and causes. Record what exceptions have cost by way of later punishments. Note how you overcame temptations to vary. At the end of the day record the number of times the habit was exercised that day.

Fine Program Of Christmas Music Is Presented

Rev. Rees T. Williams Also Delivers Fine Sermon Sunday Evening

A splendid program of Christmas music was presented last evening at the First Congregational church on East Reynolds street. Some of the best singers in the city participated in the same.

A packed auditorium greeted the choir of 40 voices when its members entered the choir loft. Friends from all parts of the city were present; also from Mercer and Wierton, W. Va., and all spoke very highly of the solo and choral work.

Miss Cecelia Hughes, Mrs. W. M. Johns and Daniel Hughes Jr. acquitted themselves in a fine manner in the solo numbers and the ensemble singing was greatly appreciated by the entire audience. The Christmas hymns by the entire congregation were sung with a vim and ferver which proved an inspiration to all.

Mrs. John M. Evans, the organist, carried out her part of the program in her usual capable manner and was a decided factor in making the program the success that it proved to be.

A very forceful sermon by Rev. Rees T. Williams, the pastor, on the three groups outside the "Stable of Bethlehem" was a fitting climax to a beautiful Christmas service of song and worship.

We'll refuse to believe in the reported over-emphasis on contract bridge until they begin to use cheer leaders.—Worcester Evening Gazette.

Five Of Alleged Robbery Gang Is. Nabbed In Erie

Three Robberies In Erie District Believed Solved By Arrests Today

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 21.—Three robberies in this district were believed solved today with the arrest of a gang of five men, state police reported.

Those arrested gave their names as: Andrew Dudas, 25; Steve Dudas, 16, both of Albion; Allan Dunlap, 46, and Joseph Pudlick, 17, both of Lundys Lane, and Samuel McCracken, 22, of Erie

Troopers said the gang was responsible for robbery of the general store of Charles Kennedy, Cransville, Pa., last November 14, when merchandise valued at $1,000 was taken; robbery of the Florence Spaulding store at Lundys Lane last November 15, when loot valued at $160 was taken, and breaking into the home of Mrs. Nettie Wimersberger of Elk Creek township, where $100 was taken.

Most of the stolen merchandise was recovered, police said.

Rotarians Hear Tax Decision

George W. Ferver And Councilman Burns Present Situation In City

Candidly and frankly, the New Castle Rotary club membership, assuming a deep business-like mood, enjoyed a lengthy and instructive discussion at noon today of one of those two things that no one would say are not inevitable—death and taxes. But, naturally, taxes got the call to the carpet.

With Councilman W. T. Burns and Rotarian George W. Ferver, leading speaker for the Rotarians, seated at the speakers' table, the members themselves joined in at times to quiz or provide an answer for the speakers.

"Our demands must come down if our taxes are to come down," declared Councilman Burns in a challenging tone as he responded to the talk of Mr. Ferver. The Rotary member had presented statistics and other data to support his statement that taxes locally are far too high.

The councilman asked the club if it wants less police protection on our streets, less electric light to illuminate our thoroughfares, less efficiency in the disposition of the city's garbage and a general cut-down in everything.

Rotarian Ferver said that the salaries of the city officials have increased 70 percent since 1914, but Councilman Burns, unable to provide figures off hand, didn't choose to agree that all salaries have climbed that high in that time.

But the meeting was planned to discuss taxes informally, and that every Rotarian was privileged to do. Several joined in the discussion at the close of Mr. Burns' short message.

Before he finished, however, the guest councilman asserted that the tax problem is a baffling one and reassurred everyone that local authorities are and will make their best effort to reduce them.

Following the regular program, over which President L. B. Round presided, the board of directors convened for their regular business meeting.

Second Church Christmas Music

Special Anthems Are Presented At A Vesper Service In Second United Presbyterian

Under the direction of Mrs. William J. Caldwell, a chorus of fifty voices presented Handel's Oratorio "The Messiah" in the Second United Presbyterian church Sunday at a 4 p. m. vespers service. The church was filled to hear the program, which follows:

Overture, Organ and Piano—Mrs. Allen and Miss McMillen.

Invocation—Dr. A. J. Randles.

Recitation—Comfort ye my people.

Air—Every valley shall be exalted—Mr. I. J. Miller.

Chorus—And the glory of the Lord.

Recitation—Behold, a virgin shall conceive.

Air—O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion—Miss Hazel Campbell.

Chorus—For unto us a child is born.

Recitation—There were shepherds abiding in the field.—Mrs. James Stone.

Chorus—Glory to God.

Pastoral Symphony—Oregon and Piano.—Mrs. Allen and Miss McMillen.

Recitation—Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened.

Air—He shall feed his flock—Miss Marion Campbell.

Air—Come unto Him.—Mrs. James Stone.

Chorus—All we like sheep have gone astray.

St. Louis Woman Shot To Death During Holdup

Woman Screams Instead Of Putting Up Hands When Store Is Held Up

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Emma Lacey, 44, was shot to death and her husband, George Lacey, 48, was wounded by bandits who attempted to hold up their confectionery store here today.

Lacey said his wife screamed instead of putting up her hands as she was ordered by the two bandits.

No money was obtained in the holdup. The bandits escaped.

CONVICT'S GIVE PLAY FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

(International News Service)

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Dec. 21.—There will be plenty of food and clothing for the inmates of the Texas state prison this year, but the boys within the walls did not forget the unfortunates who are outside.

Without other help, the prisoners wrote a play, assigned parts and with permission of the warden presented it in the prison auditorium for the benefit of the unemployed.

Outsiders who witnessed the show, had the experience of being closely watched and counted as they entered, and then counted again as they left to make sure the proper number of spectators left the building.

Although the greater number of performers were serving short sentences, a number of lifers and long timers were included.

AN IN-LAW TIE

"Why doesn't the manager engage a new juvenile lead?"

"He dare not—the present one is his mother-in-law."

British regiments are to be supplied with a new type of bayonet which is only nine inches in length, or less than half the length of the present weapon.

Knights Columbus Hold District Meeting Sunday

Make Plans For The Extension Of Activities In The District

A district meeting of the officers of the Knights of Columbus councils in this district comprising Lawrence, Butler and Mercer counties was held Sunday afternoon at The Castleton and was followed by a dinner. Every one of the councils of the district were represented. It was decided that these meetings should be held quarterly for the good of the organization.

Peter P. Capitolo, district supreme knight, presided and had charge of the discussions, which had to do with matters concerning the welfare of the councils of the district.

Those in attendance were as follows: Sharon council—Grand Knight Edward J. Heuther; Financial Secretary, John Herrmann and B. Leo McDowell, past grand knight; Butler—Grand Knight, Harry A. Oswald; financial secretary, Paul A. Stock; past grand knight and lecturer, J. V. Villing; Greenville—Grand Knight, F. M. Ahearn; financial secretary, William J. Saxe; B. L. Junk, lecturer; New Castle—District Deputy Supreme Knight, P. P. Capitolo; grand knight, Thomas Flanagin; financial secretary, Joseph O'Leary; lecturer, Vincent Travers; district warden, Joseph A. Sulzer; state secretary, B. N. Hanlon.

Yule Program At Senior High

Christmas Program Is Presented This Morning At High School

Under the direction of Miss Clara Hartsuff a Christmas program was presented this morning in the Senior high school. One of the features of the program was the singing of Christmas Carols by members of the high school girls chorus. A playlet "Why the Chimes Rang" met with the approval of the students.

The closing number on the program was a musical selection by the Senior high school orchestra under the direction of Professor Joseph Replogle.

The cast:

Halgar—Peggy Prowitt.
Steen—Leo Gensante.
Uncle Bertyl—James Sotus.
And Old Woman—Louise McCoy.
Angels—Mary Capitola and Betty Joshua.
Lord—George Hawk, William Ice and George Kyle.
Ladies—Dorothy Moore and Ruth Brenneman.

The program will be presented again Tuesday for the lower classmen of the school.

CHICAGO BANK IS ROBBED TODAY OF SUM OF $10,000

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Bandits, two of them armed with machine guns, today raided the Papanek-Kovac State bank here and escaped with $10,000 cash.

STOLEN AUTO IS REPORTED FOUND

Reggie Vestal, Leslie Hotel, reported to the police about 3 a. m. Sunday morning that his Pontiac roadster, Tenn. license 244-215 had been stolen from South Mercer street, where he had parked it five minutes previously. He reported to the police later that he had found his machine.

By scattering chipped ice from aeroplanes, heavy clouds hanging over a famous Dutch holiday resort were dispersed in rain, and twenty minutes later the sun was shining brilliantly from a clear blue sky.

John D. at Close Range

Though he has been photographed thousands of times, this exclusive photo of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is one of the most intimate studies ever made of the retired oil magnate. Despite his 93 years, Mr. Rockefeller plays his nine holes of golf each day on the links of his estate at Ormond Beach, Fla., where this photo was made.

GIVES DRIVERS LICENSE; GOES ON

F. H. Johnson of 926 East Hazel street, reported to the police over the week-end that a car bearing Pennsylvania license 268AD was backing down Long avenue hill near Grimes street and he asked the driver to put on his lights. The driver stopped his car and handed Mr. Johnson his operators card, then drove away. The operators card is at the police station.

WAR RELIC IS REPORTED STOLEN

Report was made Saturday to the police by the Allen Store on South Croton avenue, that a sword, a war relic, had been stolen there by a boy about 14 years of age and apparently of Italian parentage.

BLIND TO ENJOY YULE PARTY AT CHURCH TUESDAY

Holiday cheer will permeate the atmosphere Tuesday night when the city's Lions club holds its annual Christmas dinner and program for blind persons who reside in Lawrence county. The dinner, scheduled for 6:30 p. m., will be served in the Epworth M. E. church dining room.

Because of tomorrow night's program, no luncheon program will be held in the Elks club at noon.

TWO PAIRS OF SHOES STOLEN

John Klusch, rear of Grant street near the bridge, reported to the police over the week end that his place had been broken into and two pairs of shoes stolen.

Debt Question Is Troublesome

What Will Be Attitude When Year's Moratorium Ends?

CONGRESS WILL SHOW NEW FACE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—A collateral question has arisen in connection with the war debt moratorium that is causing administration leaders perplexity and concern.

It is this: What is going to happen when the question arises, as it inevitably must, of extending the moratorium beyond the one-year period which ends June 30 next?

The temper of the present congress is plainly against any extension. In fact, had it not been for President Hoover's foresight in obtaining advance pledges from a majority of both houses last summer to support it, it is at least debatable whether approval would have been forthcoming now.

No one in authority in Washington believes that Germany is going to be able to resume her reparations payments in full at the conclusion of the present "breathing spell" next June, nor does anyone believe that, in the absence of Germany payments, the European debtors are going to resume their payments to the United States Treasury.

The question of extending the moratorium perhaps for one year, perhaps more, will inevitably arise then early next summer while the recalcitrant 72nd Congress still is in session. Administration officials do not relish going through another moratorium battle in the present session and on the eve of the presidential nominating conventions.

There will be no prior commiments to depend upon when the matter comes up again near the close of the session, and each member will be free to vote his opinion in the light of conditions then existing; in the absence of these pledges it is considered certain there will be a tremendous swing to the opposition.

The hope is general that conditions will have so improved next June as to make an extension unnecessary. But it is a forlorn hope that Germany can make sufficient recovery during the difficult winter now beginning to enable her to resume payments. And it is even more forlorn to hope that the allied debtors will resume payments to the United States without finding the money in Germany.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Waid, Mrs. I. D. Wagner and Mrs. Herbert Mullen.

McFadden Keeps Up His Fighting Of Debt Holiday

Pennsylvania Member Of House Refuses To Be Squelched By Political Penalty

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Faced with an investigation into his private life by indignant friends of President Hoover, Representative McFadden (R) of Pennsylvania prepared today to justify his charges that the Hoover moratorium was engineered by international bankers.

Referring to charges made on the floor of the House by Representative Free (R) of California, friend of the President, that McFadden was "guilty of bribery", the latter said:

"This scurrilous matter was raised against me in my campaign four years ago and I was re-elected by the biggest majority I ever had."

Refers to Lawsuit

The Free charge referred to a lawsuit in New York between two oil companies. McFadden was a member of a committee which was to put through a sale of one to the other. Free charged that the New York court had declared McFadden guilty of bribery in accepting a fee of several thousand dollars in connection with the sale.

McFadden said the man who brought the suit in connection with the case was confined in Leavenworth prison at the time he brought it.

McFadden may seek to obtain recognition in the House today to answer some of the attacks made on him since his scathing denunciation of Mr. Hoover and the international bankers. He was expected to refer to published reports that the secret service had been assigned to investigate his past.

"I have evidence that inquiries concerning my past life and activities have already been made among my friends," said McFadden, "and also that I am being 'trailed' by secret service operatives."

Still, if it wasn't for the overhead in charity work, tight wads would find some other reason not to give.

Morning And Evening Stars

By S. S. MYERS

I have been requested to explain which are morning and evening stars, how they come to be such and the order in which they occur.

These stars belong to our solar system. They are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. Uranus and Neptune are too far away from the sun to cut any figure, while Murcury is so near the sun that it is difficult to see it.

The earth and all of the other planets revolve around the sun on, or very near the same orbital plane. When any one of the four planets mentioned passes the earth in its orbit and is seen in the west after sunset, it is an evening star. When it has passed around the sun and comes up in the morning before that luminary, it is a morning star.

Hence Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn alternately become morning and evening stars. But the most beautiful of all is Venus, because it is between the sun and the earth and nearest to us.

At present there are three evening stars, Venus, Mars and Saturn; but, as I said before, Venus is the brightest and most prominent. Mars can be distinguished by its dull, red color. Why it is red has never been satisfactorily explained—whether its surface or its foliage is red, or the blending of the rays of light produces that color is not known. When a distant fixed star, or sun, is red we know the color is caused by its temperature. Suns vary in color from red or orange to yellow or white depending upon how hot they are. But when a planet shows color the cause is different. One thing, however, when Mars is viewed thru a telescope powerful enough to bring out the surface, the redness is not noticible.

For the coming year the succession of morning and evennig stars will be as follows:

Venus will be evening star to June 25th and morning star thereafter.

Mars will be evening star to February 5th, after that it will be a morning star.

Jupiter will be morning star to February 7th then evening star to August 29th, and again morning star the balance of the year.

Saturn will be evening star to January 16th, morning star to July 24th and again evening star to the end of the year.

Woman Witness Tells How Japanese Butler Killed Wealthy Man

(International News Service)

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 21.—Still hysterical from her horrible experience of being forced to witness torture and assassination of J. W. Schatz, wealthy manufacturer, Mrs. Florence Quick Carozza, today told the story of her ordeal. Schatz was killed by his Japanese butler, who then stabbed Mrs. Carozza 14 times.

Her life, endangered by her wounds, was saved when, after a fierce battle that raged through the Schatz home from the third story to the basement room, police called by a telephone operator, rescued her.

Two Japs Held.

Gentro Akiyama, 36, the butler, and his sister-in-law, Sadako Otsuka, 26, were held today on first degree murder charges for the grand jury which was to convene January 4.

The butler, police said, confessed he became enraged when Schatz dismissed him because he had failed to prepare a midnight luncheon for Schatz and Mrs. Corozza.

He was found hiding under a roll of paper in a coal bin of the cellar, 25 feet from the body of Schatz, who had been slashed to death with a knife after he had been hacked with a hatchet and beaten with a hammer.

Operator Spreads Alarm.

During the terrific death struggle, in which the Japanese woman took part, according to the butler's confession, a telephone was knocked over. An operator, hearing sounds of a battle, notified police.

"I awakened suddenly," Mrs. Carozza said, "to see Yama, the butler, in pajamas and dressing gown and an expression of devilish hatred twisting his features, entering the bedroom through a window he had opened from the porch roof.

"I screamed. In an instant he bounded across the room, leaped on me and started choking me. Mr. Schatz awakened and started to rise.

"He knocked him unconscious.

Woman Takes Part.

"Regaining consciousness, Mr. Schatz, horribly gashed and bleeding, crawled to the front door and into the street.

"Sadaka ran after him and dragged him back into the house. Then Yama hauled him down a flight of stairs into the cellar.

"A few minutes later he returned to where I was lying on the floor. With a demoniacal grin he asked: "'Do you want to see him now?'"

She was dragged into the furnace room and forced into a chair facing the spot where Schatz, more dead than alive, was grasping his last.

"Then, while I watched," Mrs. Carozza resumed, "almost hypnotized by the horror of the thing, Yama plunged a bread knife into Mr. Schatz's face and mouth, stopping momentarily to twist the knife round and round, laughing at me in mad satisfaction while he did so.

"Suddenly he started for me. I remember feeling several sharp pains as the knife descended followed by several blows from a hammer.

"Then everything went black."

Tariff Tinkering Would Hit Chinaware Market

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21—In his message to the Seventy Second Congress President Hoover said to the members, "I am opposed to any general congressional revision to the tariff. Such action would disturb industry business and agriculture. It would prolong the depression."

The statement is an unequivocal one, a vigorous one, but no more vigorous than it should be at this time. Proposals offered by various members of Congress would revise the tariff downwards and in many cases would result in a cut throat competition with foreign made goods.

Congressman Rainey of Illinois the Democratic floor leader offers reciprocal tariff reductions which would provide that one of the rates would be called into effect unless and until some foreign nation shall establish the same tariff rates or lower tariff rates.

An example of the futility of this would be seen in the chinaware industry. If France reduced her rate, we should have to reduce ours and the result would be a flood of chinaware to the American markets that would eventually shut down American potteries.

The present tariff law has been in effect almost too short a time to really see the result of it. To begin tinkering with tariff again would be disastrous for American industry and American workmen and would add to the present depression, it is certain.

Cannot Take Care Of Large Bills

Payrolls And Accounts Will Consume All Obtainable Cash

Councilman William T. Burns, superintendent of the department of accounts and finance, today presented a report to council which related to the finance of the city.

Burns' letter follows:

"All the bills sent to this department to date have been made. The receipts in the treasurer's office shows a slight increase during the past 10 days over the first 10 days in the month, but this increase will not justify any large payments during the remainder of the month. The city payrolls and the regular monthly bills will more than likely require all the available cash obtainable and hence no other bills can be taken care of."

FOUR CONTAGIOUS CASES REPORTED

Four additional cases of contagion today were reported to Dr. W L. Steen, city health officer who said that the contagion is confined to the East Side district. The new patients are:

Martha Thomas, 5, 716 Superior street; measles.

May Woods, 6, 312 Garfield avenue; measles.

Drine Korpola, 6, 712 Superior street; measles.

Laura Doyle, 7, 913 Morton street; measles.

Pinchot Reveals That 1,286 Men Are Working At Road Relief Camps

Governor Declares That Politics Must Be Segregated From Welfare

Urges Various Officers Of State To Give Work to "Neediest"

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—Declaring positively that politics must be segregated from human welfare, Gov. Gifford Pinchot in a letter received today by county and municipal officials and the officers of political sub-divisions asked for reports of all violations of his orders for the non-political selection of men for highway employment.

The governor reiterated that "politics is out" and that a "Democratic stomach can be as hungry as a Republican stomach."

The communication was addressed to mayors, burgesses, county commissioners, heads of school districts, county poor boards and township supervisors.

"Neediest First".

He emphasized that the motto of the commonwealth in the employment of workmen on the roads is "neediest first".

At the six road camps established for housing men engaged on rural highway construction there are now 429 men, and in addition 857 residing in their own homes are engaged on the projects near these camps, making a total of 1286 men employed out of 8518 applicants.

Employment by camps follows:

Normanville, Fayette county, 78 in camps, 266 at home; Claysville, Washington county, 50 in camp, 80 at home; Kittanning Point, Blair county, 75 in camp, 154 at home; Pleasant Unity, Westmoreland county, 78 in camp, 69 at home; Cramer, Jefferson county, 77 in camp, 248 at home, and Curwensville, Clearfield county, 71 in camp, 40 at home.

ONE LOSES LICENSE HERE, ONE RESTORED

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—The Bureau of Motor Vehicles withdrew the cards of 140 drivers during the week ending December 17. Of this number, 82 driver's cards were revoked and 58 suspended. Withdrawals were 16 more than the preceding week.

Operating privileges were restored to 43 motorists. Revocations this year to date total 2,7[illegible] and suspensions 3,170.

One New Castle motorist had his license revoked, he being Harry P. Heasley, 903 Cascade street; while George A. Cage of 924 East Washington street, who had previously been suspended, had his driving privileges restored.

Dr. Butler has made so many peace speeches since he received the 1931 Nobel peace prize the other day, that one can hardly be blamed for suspecting that he is determined to get the 1932 prize too.—Worcester Daily Telegram.

OUR SHARE

The man upon his bended knee
Approached the throne of grace;
He prayed upon his God to keep
Alway before his face
The hungry poor; the destitute,
The men forlorn and sad,
To feed the hungry, cloth the poor,
And make the unhappy glad.

His son, who heard him on his knees
Imploring God to bless,
The wretched poor to feed and clothe,
And save from his distress,
Did turn to me with wistful eye
Confessing to me there;
If I'd the key to father's safe
I could answer all his prayer."

Forsooth, we often God implore
When we the task could do;
But He leaves some of the world's work,
For us to see it through,
We pray to God to succor them,
When we our gold-bags clutch,
We all can do our honest share
If little it be, or much.

Give Cantata At Central Church On Sunday Evening

Senior And Junior Choirs Of The Church Sing In Christmas Program

With an audience that filled the auditorium and balcony, the Christmas program was presented Sunday evening at the Central Presbyterian church on the public square.

The program was in story and song, with the senior and junior choirs, directed by Robert Duff, taking part. The church orchestra also shared in the program.

Mrs. Harry Barnes and Mrs. Shaw sang the solo parts, while a quartette selection was sung by Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. Peden, and Messrs. McCombs and Morrison.

Miss Joyce Wingerd was reader of the evening, Miss Helen Ewing was organist and Miss Elizabeth Brewster directed the orchestra. Approximately 50 voices were in the junior choir and 25 in the senior choir.

The program as a whole was most impressive and beautifully presented, starting and ending with the candle procession.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor, also had a part in the program of the evening.

The Christmas entertainment of the Sunday school will be presented at the church on Wednesday evening, it was announced.

"Love Triangle" Is Bared By Shooting

Grapeville, Pa., Man Confesses To Shooting To Death Of Husband In Case

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 21.—A "love triangle" was bared here today with arrest of Frank Sano, 35, of Grapeville, on a murder charge resulting from the fatal shooting of Benjamin Rocco, 33, at his home near Grapeville.

Detectives who arrested Sano said Rocco's wife, Mrs. Laura Rocco, admitted she was in love with Sano. Since the death of his wife a year ago, Sano boarded at the Rocco home.

Letters written from Mrs. Rocco to Sano in which she said she "wished Bennie, the husband, would die" so they could be married were found, detectives said.

Rocco was shot through the chest as he stood in an outbuilding near his home.

Culbertson-Lenz Contract Battle Resumes Tonight

Culbertson And Lightner Lead 7,915 Points As Play Resumes Tonight

SYSTEM IS BIG THING IN GAME

(This is another in the series of articles on the Culbertson-Lenz bridge match written especially for International News Service by Josephine Culbertson, wife of Ely Culbertson and with him originator of the approach-forcing system. Play in the match will be resumed tonight. The Culbertson team is leading by 7,915 points.)

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON
World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player
Copyright, 1931, By International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—In the world of contract bridge there is no such thing as perfection.

The world's greatest players at their best will average to make 85 per cent of the theoretically possible points on a hand or throughout a match, and thus even the greatest out of 10,000 points would lose 1500. This is no reflection upon such players, but a tribute to their skill. After all, at each stage of the bidding, or play, the player is confronted with the problem of the unknown.

Three Big Factors.

In contract bridge there are three factors:

1—The system,

2—The users of the system.

3—The luck and breaks of the cards.

By far the most important of these is the system.

A system is a logically-connected method of bidding and play, based on fundamental principles. This is true whether the system applies to bridge or whether it involves the whole philosophy of life.

We need a system to cross a busy street. The reason that a trained Japanese butler can do the work of many untrained women servants is that he uses a system, while they rely mainly upon intuition. System does not imply anything arbitrary or rigid or wooden. Imagination and flexibility are the indispensable parts of a successful system.

Ten Years Study.

The Culbertson system of contract bridge (sometimes called the one-over-one), is the result of 10 years of intensive analysis, study and practical tests. Its superiority has been proved so many times by all these measuring sticks that I never for a moment doubted our ultimate victory in the match with Mr. Sidney S. Denz and Mr. Oswald Jacoby, to test it in comparison with the official system. The reason for my faith is that the bridge player who uses an inferior system, however skillful he may be as an individual player, cannot win against a player of somewhat weaker caliber who makes use of better methods.

The factor of players is, of course, important. Naturally, a very fine player will win, regardless of the system he uses, against greatly inferior strength, but in this game that can be discounted, as all the players are veterans. Without exception, all of those who have participated, on either side, have played with masterly skill. This does not mean that they have not made mistakes—they have. Some of them have been costly, but the total number are all within the limits of the 15 per cent alloyed to the most expert player.

Aces Are Even.

The last factor is that of the breaks and luck of the cards. So far, 63 rubbers have been played, almost one-half of the match. The number of aces held by my husband and his partner on the one side and Messrs. Lenz and Jacoby on the other has been exactly even.

Liquor Shipment Seized By State Police At Butler

Truck Load Of "Good Cheer" For Pittsburghers Seized On Highway Near Butler

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 21.—A part of the "good cheer" destined to warm Pittsburgh's heart during the Yuletide today reposed in the State police sub-station here.

Four cases of Canadian whiskey and 60 gallons of alleged alcohol were seized, together with William Springer, 29, of Pittsburgh, on a highway near here. Springer, according to the troopers, said he was enroute from Buffalo to Pittsburgh. He was charged with transporting liquor.

Woman Tells Story To Effect That Men Quarreled

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 21.—State police investigating the double killing last night of Koon Hoy, 65, and Charles Piper, 45, near Valley Mills, said today they had established that Hoy killed Piper during a quarrel and then took his own life. At first they believed Piper killed Hoy and committed suicide.

Mrs. Elizabeth Laughery told state police the men had been hunting and came to her home. They started to quarrel, she said, and Hoy shot Piper. She went to a nearby house to notify police, Mrs. Laughery said, and upon her return discovered Hoy had killed himself.

Mrs. Laughery was held as a material witness pending an inquest tomorrow.

Annual Eisteddfod At First Congregational Church To Be Held Later

Owing to unforeseen circumstances, the Eisteddfod scheduled for Christmas afternoon at the First Congregational Church, has been postponed. A sesion of competitions for children under sixteen years of age had been arranged, but will now be held on Saturday evening preceding Washington's birthday, when it is expected that some of the best children singers and reciters of the city will be heard in various selections.

On Christmas Night at eight o'clock, the Kymric Dramatic Society of the church will present a play entitled "The Deacon Entangled."

MOTORISTS WARNED

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 21.—Coroner S. A. Baltz today issued general warning to all motorists that in cases where fatal accidents occur from running-board-passengers, manslaughter charges will be preferred against the driver. Carl Weaver, of Masontown, was held on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Dorsey Stahlnecker, who was thrown from the running board as Weaver's car rounded a curve.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Due to a widespread, insistent public demand (well anyway two people) the colyum return today after an absence of a number of weeks while the engineer was here and there. As one constant reader said "you fool some of the people most of the time and it's a long lane that gathers no moss." Any how here it is back in the flesh and blood and we hope you'll like it.

Really should say something pretty about the street lights on Washington street. Tricky, no end, and gives a fellow that same-to-you feeling. The street is a picture and the reason is that the merchants cooperated in the idea.

There are several towns between here and Harrisburg that have the street lighting idea worked out but not a one of them in as elaborate or as pleasing manner as your own city. Now if they would just eliminate parking on Washington street in the evenings at least for this week, the visitors would get a head-on view of the whole thing.

It's a smart idea. You come down town without a lot of money and it looks as though Christmas will be just another day. But somehow those lights and the trees and the general effect sort of creep into your consciousness, your disposition does a ten per cent jump enthusiasm rises five points, and while you can't spend a lot of money you spend what you have and before you get home, you are wishing the traffic cop a Merry Christmas.

Some folks must have their Christmas trees. Most of us have to pay for them but there are still people who will go out into the woods and cut down a hemlock or a spruce just for the purpose of having a tree on Christmas morning.

Saw some cars on the road yesteurday with lovely hemlocks tied on the back and while you can't criticize the desire for a tree, it is too bad that folks will cut down forest trees to satisfy that desire.

It is against the law of course, and there is a fine attached to such a deed, but that isn't the worst of it. As a growing tree in the woods the hemlock will be thing of beauty for years and years. Cut it down and you have destroyed beauty, robbed people of pleasure, and added another scar to the woods.

And we can still remember the local citizen who lost a blue spruce some years ago when an over-zealous lad romped up onto his front yard and cut his prize specimen down to get a Christmas tree. The l. c. is over the shock now, but if he ever finds the culprit he'll still have his life's blood.

St. Vitus Choir To Sing At Mass

Four Masses Will Constitute Service; Midnight Mass Friday

It has been announced that four masses will constitute the Christmas service at the St. Vitus church. The feature at the midnight mass Friday will be the special singing by the choir of the St. Vitus church which has been rehearsing for the past few weeks.

Rev. Nicholas DeMita stated that the first mass will be delivered at 12:00 o'clock, midnight Friday. The second mass will be celebrated at 7:00, the third at 9:00 o'clock and the fourth and final mass will be said at 10:45 o'clock.

The choir is under the direction of B. J. Biondi. The organist is Mrs. E. Lacko. The members of the choir are: first tenors, Mike Ross, Frank DeLillo, Vitus Conti, Mike Turco, Peter Joseph, Andrew DeLorenzo and Domenick Marcella; second tenors, Harry Micceletti, Frank Colao, Tony Spinelli, Harry Ross and Adam Vincent: bass, Carl Calello, Francis DeSanctis, Frank Mele, Ralph Palo and Joseph DeLillo.

The Rev. Nicholas DeMita assisted by Father Donnatelli will give the midnight mass. The choir will sing "Orbis Factor" written by Rev. Carle Rosini. The church is expected to be crowded to capacity at the midnight mass.

Arson Charged Against Woman In Court Case

Mrs. Taman Nahas Is Placed On Trial Before Judge R. L. Hildebrand

HUSBAND'S CASE IS HELD OVER

When the cases of Albert Nahas and Taman Nahas, his wife, charged with arson, were called for trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand this morning, defendant's counsel objected to both cases being tried together. The commonwealth contended that the charges both grew out of the same fire, but the defense maintained that Mr. Nahas was away at the time, Mrs. Nahas being in the house. It was finally agreed to try only one of the cases, and that against Mrs. Nahas was taken up.

Mr. and Mrs. Nahas were charged with arson by Deputy Fire Marshall, William R. Brush, after a fire had destroyed their home at 512 Division street on the morning of April 1, 1931. Mr. Nahas had gone to Pittsburgh. Mrs. Nahas, with two children, Olga, aged 15 and Edward, aged 13, were at home.

Mrs. Nahas claimed that she was awakened about 2 o'clock in the morning. Her room was filled with smoke and she could hear the crackling of burning timber. Rushing to her children, she got them up and put them out of a second story window to the roof of a porch. She followed, and they were rescued by neighbors.

When the fire department arrived the interior of the house was a seething furnace, and flames were breaking out of the windows. The fire was extinguished, after the house was pretty well gutted and the furniture destroyed. While investigating after the fire it was claimed that some oil soaked clothing had been found in a trunk upstairs.

Firemen were unable to locate the origin of the fire. Mrs. Nahas was unable to throw any light on the situation. The supposition was that the fire had originated from the furnace.

Mr. Nahas was ideal in oriental rugs and imported linen. It was claimed that a half dozen or more expensive rugs and a considerable quantity of the linen had been destroyed, as well as the furniture in the house. It was developed that heavy insurance was carried, and that three policies had been taken out.

The house belonged to Mrs. Katherine Murphy, it being leased to Nahas.

Following an investigation, Fire Marshall Brush brought a charge of arson. The defendants deny that they had anything to do with the house being on fire.

WINICHS ACQUITTED BY JURY'S VERDICT

Philip and Paul Winich, who were tried before Judge James A. Chambers on Saturday on a charge of conspiring to defraud a creditor, were found not guilty by a jury which returned a verdict Saturday evening.

The costs in the case were placed on George A. Crocker, representing the Weideman Company of Cleveland, prosecutor in the case.

E. STEPHENSON HELD BY POLICE

E. Stephenson, colored, was arrested last night by Detective John Young, Officer Thomas Lynch and Assistant County Detective B. J. Rocks. He is being held for investigation in connection with a recent case in this city.

Dear Santa:—
I am a little boy six years old. I would like to have a fire engine, airplane, train and an automobile and don't forget my sister Laura, who wants a sewing box and a box of Old Maids and some nuts and candy. Don't forget the other little boys and girls of New Castle.
Your friend always,
HAROLD KENNEDY,
2033 Pennsylvania avenue.

Dear Santa:—
I am a little boy five years old and want to tell you what I want for Christmas. Please bring me a blackboard, toys and some trucks. I have a little brother Bobby who is three years old. Bring him some tops, candy and pop.
CURTIS ANDERSON,
R. D. 2, New Castle.

Dear Old Santa:—
I am a little boy three years old. I would like for you to bring me a fire engine, bicycle and a steam roller. I would like for you to bring my brother a bottle of milk.
Your little friend,
JACK ELLSWORTH,
106 Wilmington avenue,
New Castle, Pa.

Dec. 18, 1931,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am writing you to not send me any toys. Just send something to eat.
William Baskyfield,
1309½ Grimes St.,
New Castle, Pa.

Volant, Pa., R. D. No. 4
Dec. 20, 1931.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little boy, I want a two wheeled bike, oranges, apples and nuts for Christmas. Also I want a football, a mash game and a sled. How are your reindeer?
Your friend,
Russel Dillinger.

Education Can Help In Economic Battle

Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent Of Public Instruction Gives Viewpoints

Must Teach Students Gospel Unified Teamwork In Classrooms

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 21.—War on depression is education's battle and the social gospel of unified teamwork must be preached in the classrooms which, have a definite task to perform in achieving the goal of economic stabilization.

This expression came today from Dr. James N. Rule, Pennsylvania's superintendent of public instruction.

Social Efficiency.

"I believe it is generally conceded that the ultimate causes of the depression are not so much economical as they are sociological and phychological," Dr. Rule said. "We must attack the situation from those viewpoints.

"Education has been interested in developing individual efficiency rather than social efficiency. But we have learned that the important thing is not so much 'getting on' as it is 'getting on together.'"

The man who conceived and launched the ambitious ten-year program of educational development in Pennsylvania feels that conditions today emphasize the necessity and wisdom of looking ahead and the teaching of civic, social and political cooperation to avoid a recurrence.

Financial Problems.

Pennsylvania's educational system is facing critical financial problems of its own, Dr. Rule observed in envisioning an era of radically revised taxation methods and a more just apportioning of the burden of school support.

"A larger share of the burden will have to be done by the state itself," he added. He pointed out that although approximately $225,000,000 is spent annually for education in Pennsylvania, only 13 per cent is contributed by the state treasury with the remaining 87 per cent levied on local districts.

Need New Method.

"The property tax, the chief local means of public support, is pretty well broken down," Dr. Rule said. "A new and fairer method of taxation to maintain education must be worked out."

He was disinclined to commit himself definitely on a suggested state income tax to be substituted for the greater share of the burden now resting on local districts, remarking only that "many excellent authorities seem to agree that this is the solution."

City Purchases Fire Hose Today

City To Purchase 1,000 Feet At One Dollar Per Foot

Council met in the city building today and adopted a motion presented by Councilman C. H. Reeves awarding a contract to the Fabric Fire Hose company of Sandy Hook, Conn., for the purchase by the city of 1,000 feet of 2½ inch Elkshead white double jacket fire hose at $1.00 a foot.

The vote was three to two. Mayor Gillespie and Councilman Burns voted against the award.

After the recommendation was voted upon Councilman Burns introduced a motion which stipulated payment could not be made until the contract had been approved.

The motion also stipulated that City Solicitor Robert White should prepare the contract.

The motion was adopted unanimously.

Burns explained in answer to a question by Councilman Reeves that the city had accepted a contract prepared by the American La France Fire Engine company and as a result had to make immediate payment for the Second ward fire station truck bought recently.

Forget-Me-Not Sale Brought Good Response

Public Contributed Generously In Appeal Made By Rentz Post

Sale of Forget-Me-Nots Saturday by High School girls in the interests of the Fred L. Rentz Post, Disabled American Veterans, brought a fine response from the public, Commander R. S. Kerr stated this morning, and the members of the post are deeply gratified over the way the public responded.

Commander Kerr has called a special meeting of the post which will be held at his home, 941 Harrison street, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. to which all members are earnestly requested to attend.

Business of vital importance to the post will come up for discussion.

JUDGE CHAMBERS TO TRY MURDER CASE

Judge James A. Chambers went to Butler today where he will try a murder case in the Butler county courts. The case is that of the commonwealth against Elmer DeFoggi, 27, charged with killing his estranged wife, Margaret Travaglio DeFoggi, 21, the night of October 25, last. The young woman died soon after being stabbed at a home where both had been living, although separated.

Life Most Unpleasant For McFadden Just Now

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21.—It has been a long time since the Pennsylvania Congressional delegation has been so embroiled over any issue as it now is over the manner in which Representative Louis T. McFadden of Canton denounced President Hoover and the war debt moratorium.

The delegation is frankly split over the matter. Some few members contend McFadden thought he was doing right and are ready to hold no ill-will. The majority of the group, however, is determined to eliminate Mr. McFadden from their friendship and to do everything possible to bring about his defeat.

Senator Reed is particularly angry over the McFadden bolt. The senator, usually an administration supporter, sometimes differs with Mr. Hoover. But he does it ethically, and he can't see anything ethical at all in the method used by McFadden in accusing the president of "selling out" the United States to Germany.

Likely the outburst of Mr. McFadden is the most talked of event of Washington circles right now. When members of the Pennsylvania delegation are met by their colleagues in Congressional corridors they are buttonholed and questioned as to what they intend to do about the rebel in their midst. Their reactions are entertaining.

Some become angry and denounce Mr. McFadden in no mild terms. Others remonstrate that McFadden's speech in the House chamber shouldn't be held against him personally, and still others point out that punitive action against the Canton Congressman has already been taken and that more will follow.

All in all, McFadden is finding life very unpleasant.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

The One Hundredth Regiment of Pennsylvania, is better known as the Roundhead Regiment, and gained that name because the territory from which it was recruited was settled by the Covenanters, who followed Cromwell. It had more Lawrence county and New Castle men in its ranks than any other regiment. It was recruited by Captain Daniel Leasure, who had been connected with the Twelfth Regiment, by authority of the secretary of war under the date of August 6, 1861. Companies B, E, F, H, I, and K were recruited in Lawrence county and on September 2, 1861, the regiment consisting of twelve companies, proceeded to Washington an encamped at Kalorama Heights. Upon organization, Daniel Leasure was commissioned as colonel of the regiment. The regiment was brigaded October 7, 1861, with the Eighth Michigan and Fiftieth Pennsylvania with Colonel Leasure as ranking officer in command. It joined the command of General W. T. Sherman at Anapolis, destined for the coast of South Carolina. On request of Colonel Daniel Leasure to the Secretary of War, the Seventy-Ninth New York was assigned to his brigade and on October 12, 1861, General Isaac I. Stevents was assigned to its command. October 19, they sailed for Fortress Monroe, then under sealed orders for Port Royal Entrance. They arrived on November 5 and on 7th the gunboats advanced to the attack of Forts Walker and Beauregard, driving the enemy from the works. The troops landed and took possession of the forts, also Hilton Head and Lady's Island. Fortifications were erected and General Stevens' brigade was stationed there for one month and then proceeded further inland to the town of Beaufort. General Hunter, who had relieved General Sherman in this department, undertook the reduction of Charleston. With this object in view, on June 1, 1862, General Stevens moved his brigade through Stony Inlet to James Island, took possession of the village of Legareville and moved into the interior of the island. June 16, they made an attack on Tower Fort, near Secessionville, which was held by a large force and commanded the approaches to Charleston by the James Causeway. The attack was repelled with heavy losses and the operations against Charleston were suspended.

Dempsey-Estelle In Agreement On Matter Of Money

Dempsey's Attorneys Settle For $40,000, Attorney Fees And Other Items

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—For $40,000, the divorce difficulties of Estelle Taylor, beautiful film actress, and Jack Dempsey, formerly the heavyweight boxing champion of world, has been settled.

After attorneys for Dempsey had agreed to pay her attorney fees, a $12,500 mortgage on her mansion, accumulated taxes and certain delinquent household bills, Miss Taylor agreed to drop her Los Angeles suit for divorce.

Dempsey several months ago obtained a Nevada divorce decree.

Dempsey was en route to Los Angeles by airplane from South Dakota to sign the agreement.

A $15,000 foreign built automobile that Dempsey gave Miss Taylor for a Christmas present last year was enroute today from San Francisco to Hollywood to be returned to her.

"The settlement today was the best thing to do. Despite assurances of my attorney that Jack's Reno decree could be voided the only thing I could have gained from a California divorce decree would have been personal satisfaction," Miss Taylor said.

Safety Education Will Save Money For Pennsylvania

During 1930 State Lost $200,000,000 Through Careless Accidents

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—Safety education to eliminate the loss in dollars and cents resulting from accidental deaths will aid materially in bringing about business recovery, according to the "Safety Number," December issue of "Pennsylvania Progress," monthly publication of the State Chamber of Commerce. During the year 1930 the State lost more than $200,000,000 due to 8,583 accidental deaths according to figures compiled by the State Department of Health and published in the magazine of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Despite this huge total it is encouraging to note, the article points out, that accidental deaths are 30 per cent lower now than they were 1' years ago. Further safety education, however, it is contended will continue to decrease this total and aid in the restoration of business to its regular trends.

Highway Work Is Progressing

Highway From Kane To Kinzua Is Being Rushed Along —Forty-Five Employed

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Dec. 21.—Work on the Kane-Kinzua highway is proceeding rapidly and forty-five local men have been given employment thus far. The men have been working in three-day shifts in an effort to give work to as many men as possible.

Two miles of roadway will be constructed this winter and the remaining portions of the 20-mile project will be completed next spring and summer, which will mean that Kane and Kinzua will be connected by improved highway for the first time. The road is part of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's unemployment relief program.

Officials declare that all of the 200 men registered on the unemployment list here will be given employment at various times on the road.

Wesleyans To Have Christmas Program

The Christmas program for the Wesleyan Methodist church, Lyndal street, will be presented Tuesday evening, December 22 at 7:30. It will be a joint program of both Sunday school and church.

The program will feature many local solos and Christmas anthems and the auditorium will be prettily decorated in the Christmas greens and flowers, through the courtesy of F. E. Welker.

At the close of the program the Christmas treat will be given.

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—What few New Yorkers know:

That it's nonsense to speak of Dec. 25th as Christmas in New York—and it never was during the Dutch regime, falling then on Dec. 6, or the day St. Nicholas, patron saint of the town.

* * *

That the most romantic house in town is that old Colonial pile you can glimpse from the Queensborough bridge, in East 61st street Known as "Smith's Folly," it was once a road house far out in the sticks, and one owner lost it in a game of cards.

* * *

That it's now possible to buy automatic window-closers and gadgets that take the first puff of cigarets for you, to say nothing of machines for peeling grapes.

* * *

That the department of street cleaning conducts a school where ambitious white wings are taught to swing ash cans rhythmically.

* * *

That, according to the committee of engineers now making a survey of the problem, traffic on Manhattan Island moves much slower than it did in stage coach days.

* * *

That Seth Parker (Phillips Lord) got a hearing in the broadcasting studios first by wearing the most fantastically countrified rig ever seen in New York.

* * *

That $5,500 is the maximum any musician can hope to drag out of an evening's Metropolitan recital, and only eight have ever been able to pocket that—all of them men, five of them pianists.

* * *

That there are two magazines in New York devoted exclusively to civil service and its problems.

* * *

That the magazine, Time, pays a news service to wire, radio and cable information about limps, bald spots, dimples, stutters, gestures and eye-coloring of celebrities in the news all over the world.

* * *

That Earl Carroll never interviews an applicant for a job in the chorus unless there is a third persons in the room.

* * *

That Milt Gross, who wrote a novel without words, is now writing one without pictures.

* * *

That the special matinees of "Little Women" packed 'em in from curdled Broadway, when a gangster play and a sex comedy in the same block were languishing from no-patronitis.

* * *

That James Branch Cabell is thinking of dropping the James for good.

* * *

That "eat, drink and demerits" was the old Christmas-time pun of Naval academy midshipmen.

* * *

That an evening paper here carried an ad the other day for "chorus girl—weight, 180 pounds." Did the typographer hit the wrong key, or have the nineties returned?

* * *

That New York is so tame and moral that the real cut-ups drive to surrounding cities for vivid evenings.

Many Attend Special Event By Salvation Army Here Sunday

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—The First Presbyterian church of Ellwood City was crowded Sunday afternoon when the Salvation Army put on a special program in an effort to raise money for their home which is taking care of many destitute children, of which three are from this city.

Major W. E. Fowle, special secretary of the Army was the principal speaker on the occasion. He brought some first hand knowledge of the Army and its work in regard to children.

The local legion bugle and drum corps, a visiting delegation of Salvation Army officers and other musical organizations took part in the day's event. A special musical program was given outside the church just before activities took place inside. Several local pastors participated at this time. The Brook's Sextette gave several selections. Then pictures of the Salvation Army's Children's home were shown.

Y. P. C. U. Members Have Good Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—Nearly 50 members of the Y. P. C. U. Society of the United Presbyterian church gathered in their rooms Sunday evening after the church services for a most interesting meeting. Pine decorations adorned conspicous places about the room. Illumination was furnished by many red candles.

Miss Beryl Boots was in charge of the devotional exercises and Mrs. Emmett Liebendorfer of the study period. An interesting discussion on the second chapter of their stewardship book took place. Miss Dorothy Tomb was the leader.

At the close of the evening's program arrangements for distributing gifts for the needy at Christmas time were made. It was announced at this time that H. F. Wilson will be in charge of the Mission Study Class on Tuesday evening. Current events on missionary work will be given at the time. A moonlight hike is being planned by the society.

LEON R. LIVINGSTON ADDRESSES LUTHERAN CONGREGATION HERE

ELLWOD CITY, Dec. 21—Leon R. Livingston, noted traveler, author and orator delivered the principal address at the regular services in the Trinity Lutheran church. A capacity crowd heard the famous man.

Mr. Livingston spoke on the subject, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" which was really a story of his adventures and misfortunes about the earth.

FUNERAL FOR FORMER RESIDENT

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Shaffer, a former resident of this city and mother of Mrs. Thomas Rodgers of Reservoir Hill, were held Saturday afternoon at her late home at Vanburen, Ark.

Until three years ago, Mrs. Shaffer had lived her entire life in this vicinity and her death brings sorrow to her many friends here. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Rodgers, this city and two sons, Adam and Harry, both of Vanburen.

Burial was made in the Vanburen cemetery.

Americanism: Feeling too busy and important to vote or do jury service; growling about crooked officials and dumb juries.

"Thirteenth Chair" Has Appreciative Audience Saturday

Senior Class Presents Play For Charity In Pleasing Manner

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—The Senior class of the Lincoln High School presented its mystery sensation, "The Thirteenth Chair" before a fairly large and appreciative audience Saturday evening in the High School auditorium. The proceeds of the play is to go in making Christmas more enjoyable for many needy school children.

The cast of 17 again scored a hit as the plot gradually unfolded to the amazement of the audience. Each character performed his part in a most clever manner so as to keep the guilty person secure until the climax. The play was a challenge for anyone to pick the guilty party. Charles Zeigler in this role as Phillip Mason covered himself with glory by his interpretation of the part. No one would suspect the quiet and suave Phillip Mason as the murderer. Why the famous Inspector Tim Donahue was baffled by the mystery. But Phillip was forced into a confession by Madame Rosalie La Grange, played by Virginia MacDonald, in a most astounding manner. Miss Lillian Henderson as Helen O'Neil and the heroine brought suspecion and arrest on herself by her queer tactics. Donald Gordon, Charlotte Brown, James Gaskell, David Aiken, Lillian Oswald, Louise Caplan, Cecil Barlow, James VanGorder, Phyliss Newton, Jean Sitler, Chester Wilson, Milton Caplan, and Robert Infield each performed their part notably to add to the mystery.

Local Grid Star Accident Victim

Sam Neff Is Not In Serious Condition After Being Rendered Unconscious

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—Sam Neff, probably the greatest end ever turned out at Ellwood high is recovering rapidly from several painful injuries at the Ellwood City hospital, which were incurred when he was struck by an automobile in Frisco Friday evening.

Neff was struck by a machine driven by Luke C. Riley of Duquense, Pa., who is employed in the G. C. Murphy company of this city. According to Riley's report to the police, he was going at a slow speed east, between the Borough line and Frisco bridge, when Neff appeared on the road walking in the same direction. He could not swerve his car in time to avoid striking him. Neff was knocked into the gutter and rendered unconscious. He was immediately taken to the local hospital where his injuries were not found to be serious. They were taken care of and he was taken home, but was forced to return Saturday morning. It was feared that he had received a fractured skull, which was revealed to be untrue. He received injuries about the face, hands, legs and head, among them a sprained wrist. He is weak from the loss of blood, but otherwise is expected to be on his feet and out of the hospital in two days.

WEDDING DINNER FOR NEWLYWEDS

ELLWOOD City, Dec. 21. — In honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Varner, a bride and groom of last week, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Daufen of the Ellwood-Zelienople road, entertained a number of their friends at their home Saturday evening.

Following the reception, the guests were ushered into the dining room at 6 o'clock where an elaborate wedding dinner was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. J. R. Nagel and Mrs. Alice Yahn. The room was prettily decorated with novelties suggestive of the Christmas season while the table was beautifully centered with a large wedding cake.

Covers were arranged for Rev. and Mrs. Wilbert T. Wilson of Middle Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nagel, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Laufen, Mrs. Melissa Daufen, Mrs. Alice Yahn, Mrs. Earl Honnifer, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Daufen, Mararet Daufen, Elizabeth and Nellie Honnifer, Irma Jean Daufen, Frank Smith, King Daufen and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Varner, the honor guests.

Later in the evening a large number of their friends gathered at the Daufen home and tendered the happy couple a serenade and congratulations. After treceiving the best wishes of their many friends, the serenaders were invited into the house by the newlyweds, where the evening was spent pleasantly with games and music.

FUNERAL SERVICES

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 21.—Funeral services for Mrs. Thomas Rocco whose death occurred Friday afternoon at ther home on Lawrence avenue following a short illness were held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the Italian Catholic church, of this city. Suggestion Made That Admission Reductions Will Save Grid Game

Frank G. Menke, I. N. S. Sports Editor Has Brilliant Suggestion On Football

Would Charge Fans Just What Attractions Are Worth 50c And $1 Per Game

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—If those football folks seriously want to sure the "evil" the process is simplicity itself.

All they need to do is to reduce admission prices.

About 50 cents would do for good seats to those "preliminary games" and two bits for the sad and forlorn parking places back of the goal posts. And about $1 for the choice spots and 50 cents for the otherwise, when the team is playing somebody really in its class.

Are Commercializing

There wasn't any evil, over-emphasis, proselyting, subsidizing or yips about corruption, while the college authorities regarded football as a game "for sport's sake" and assessed the customer only enough to pay operating expenses. All the reek became entwined with the gridiron displays as soon as the prices were scaled up and the authorities, finding that fortune could be made with a snorty set of athletes, began to comb the lands for fast luggers, deadly tackles and spine jarring linesmen.

After the disastrous season of 1905, during which about half as many players were killed as in 1931, President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia advocated the abolishment of football, saying that a game should not be permitted to exist if it destroyed "young lives."

But the game was saved by the forward pass in 1906.

Interest in it was centered largely through the next eight years in such established football institutions as Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, and a few others in the East, and the conference colleges in the Middle West.

Radical Change

The University of Pittsburgh unconsciously was the institution which wrought the radical change. Striving to increase its student body and feeling that this could be done if the college had a good football squad to cheer about, Pitt secured the services of Glenn Warner, as coach along in 1915.

Warner was a tremendous success. Pitt's Panthers secured national championship rating with many experts back in 1915, and not only did the team play to increasing crowds but the student body increased in a magnificent way.

Other schools, quick to sense that a good football team was good publicity, began to hire crack coaches and loyal grads proceeded to do some "scouting" and unleashed plenty of sales talk in behalf of Ol' Kiyipulus University as the spot for higher learning.

After the World War, when the country became prosperous and sought relaxation and pleasure, with a dash of thrills and things spectacular the old ballyhoo about "Why not try football?" was started by the colleges through high powered publicity organizations created for the purpose.

Had Possibilities

Football caught on in its ways that amazed the faculties which, by this time, saw the commercial possibilities of the "sport."

Thus were the conditions of today created.

If they are an evil, and if those college powers want to restore the game to its status of sport, they can do it easily by asking the fans and fanettes to pay just enough at the portals to defray the cost of operating a wholly amateur football squad.

St. Andrews Tops Eintrachts 15-14

Fast Basketball Game Played At St. Mary's Floor Saturday Night

The St. Andrews church basketball team nosed out the Eintrachts 15 to 14 in a fast floor game Saturday night at St. Mary's auditorium floor. It was the second win for St. Andrews.

Team work won the game for St. Andrews, there were no individual stars. The score at the end of the first half favored the St. Andrews team 11 to 3. The Eintrachts were held to a lone field goal in the first two periods. Eintrachts made a spirited bid for the game in the final half coming within a point of deadlocking the score. The game was exciting in the final two minutes with the score 15 to 14. The Eintrachts could not secure the point neded to tie.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Art Shires of the Milwaukee Brewers proved the individual batting champion of the American association last season. He played in 157 games and compiled an average of .385 to fulfill his promise to lead the hitters. He hit 240 times which were good for 334 bases. He had 45 doubles, eight triples and 11 home runs.

Gypsie Chief, carrying the colors of M. Howard, took the six-furlong dash which occupied the feature spot on the race card yesterday at Oriental park, Havana. Ridden by D. Cox, Gypsie Chief took the lead from Trappy after the first quarter and never was headed.

Aldo (Buff) Donnelli, twice captain of the Duquesne university and for the past two seasons freshman coach at his alma mater, is being considered as coach at St. Francis, according to a Pittsburgh report.

Ralph Greenleaf to New York ruled over the pocket billiard world today, champion for the 11th time. There are seven and possibly eight other games to be played in the meet at Philadelphia but Greenleaf's standing will not be affected by the play.

Harry Cooper won the Pasadena $4,000 open tournament with a card of 72, three under par yesterday. He showed an almost complete mastery of the new heavier ball.

West Pittsburg Team To Play

The West Pittsburg basketball team will open their season tonight by playing on their new floor at West Pittsburg. The opponents for the West Pittsburg team will be the Forest A. C. of New Castle.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock. The St. Andrew's team of New Castle will be the opponents on Wednesday night. For games with the West Pittsburg team call West Pittsburg 17-J and ask for Jacob.

Walker-Schmeling Battle Talked Of In Chicago Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21—Nate Lewis, matchmaker of the Chicago Stadium, will arrive here today to talk to Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, about a world's championship title bout.

Lewis wants the champion to meet Mickey Walker, former middleweight king, in a championship fight in Chicago in March.

Jacobs is ready to accept Lewis' offer of $200,000, with a privilege of 40 per cent of the receipts, providing the Illinois State Legislature amends the state boxing law to permit 15 round bouts.

Jacobs has given Lewis until January 5 to make final arrangements for the proposed fight. He said he was sure that Lewis would not be coming here for the conference unless he was certain of his ground and confident the 15-round law would be passed.

May Play Golf Christmas Day

Hart Thinking Of Putting Back Cups On Greens If Weather Continues

If the present brand of weather continues Christmas Day, Course Manager Walter S. Hart, at the municipal links, says he may put the cups back on the greens and set up the flags.

Golfers have been continuing to come to the Muny course on every nice day, and Saturday and Sunday found some ardent golfers braving the chilly atmosphere to get in what may be their last game of the season.

According to some of those playing, the day was ideal for golf, and the course was in fine condition. The cups have been drawn from the greens and the flags are down, but outside that the course is in good condition.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Plenty of dirty linen on the football clothesline, and most faculties snobbish about tackling the "launderying" job.

Headlines state: "Professional Foot Ball Prospered in 1931."

Which variety?

So many football coaches out of jobs now that tabulation of what class of workmen predominate among the unemployed finds the tutors high up in the list.

Funny the way most of them lose their jobs.

Bill Roper, coach at Princeton in 1930, "busted" into print with comments how sour was the handling of the Tigers against Yale. And the next thing was Al Wittmer's resignation.

The college paper at New York University took a blast at "Chick" Meehan. And "Chick" answered with his tweet-tweet of farewell. After which N. Y. U. announces "reformations" in the future.

Harvard promises "sweeping changes" for 1932.

And then issues its statement, for the year ending last June, showing athletics receipts of $1,071,498 and includes among its outlay "administrative and other expenses, $130,795.05."

A hundred and thirty thousand berries to operate a sports program.

"Sweeping changes for 1932" what can it mean?

No matter how seriously you ponder the problem you perhaps still will find that the difference between an amateur and a pro is that the amateur won't take cash.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

The sport world's most popular rumor isn't a story—he's Andy Kerr, Colgate coach. And Andy—as a leading rumor and a headline space filler—is almost as good as he is a gridiron mentor.

The original sport page rumor was that hardy perennial: "Stagg Fears Purdue." It was a swell one. As a headline it waved gallantly from column one, first sport page, in nearly every newspaper each autumn until certain Saturdays when the fearful Stagg's team would murder the fearsome Purdue eleven.

However, Purdue some years back, became a very potent football factor and Stagg's teams, at the same time, began to droop in quality. With Purdue really something for Mr. Stagg to fear, the famed slogan-rumor vanished. It was last seen, according to one of this column's correspondents, on the sport page of the Oct. 10, 1927, issue of the East Bicycle, Ark., Gazette.

* * *

Another famous rumor which served for many years was "Giants Sold to Western Capitalist." This rumor, while not as traditional as the Stagg-Purdue dream (the Giants report was first printed in the Sauerkraut Center, Pa., Times-Globe-Herald-Tribune, May 16, 1923) has lasted longer. It raised its familiar, graying head as late as a month or two ago when the "Western Capitalist" was identified as an Indianapolis millionaire.

However, the Giants sale rumor is only a seasonal one and like the Stagg-Purdue report good for only once or twice a year. Andy Kerr is a far better rumor, a rumor that blossoms in spring as well as fall, one you may read while swatting flies or between shovel duty at the furnace door.

The Kerr rumor—"Seek Kerr for Vacant Post"—dates back only a year or two, but statistics gathered from a reliable source prove that it has been used 249 times since April 10, 1930. That is, it appears about every three days, hot or cold, rain or shine.

* * *

The latest "vacant post" for which Kerr is rumored as being sought is that of head coach of New York university's football team. The Colgate coach, now busy with Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern in whipping the "East" team into shape for the annual East-West New Year's Day charity game on the Pacific cost, probably hasn't seen it. A fellow, you know gets used to that sort of thing.

Outstanding "vacant posts" for which Kerr was supposedly being sought this year, included those which obtained at Western Reserve university, Carnegie Tech (later discovered NOT vacant), Tulane university, the University of Minnesota and many smaller fry.

It isn't something over which to be surprised that Kerr does not take time to deny all of these rumors. A fellow has other things to do, you know, and Andy probably has discovered by now that as long as he fails to deny one rumor he prevents the appearance of the next.

Team To Play Heavy Schedule

This week the Gerson Jewelers basketball team enters a very busy program. On Monday evening they tangle with the Wesley M. E. in a regulation church game.

On Tuesday will be the regular semi-monthly meeting at the Temple Israel at 9 p. m. sharp.

Friday evening the Gersons travel to Pittsburgh to tangle with the Irene Kaufmann Settlement. This team is one of the leading clubs in Pittsburgh and is coached by Ziggy Kahn, who at one time was physical director at the local high school.

Saturday night will find the Jewelers in Akron, opposing the Y. M. H. A. of that city.

The Comrades basketball team would like to book games with all first class Junior teams in the city and county. The Wampum Merchants are asked to get in touch with Frank by calling 1849-J for a game.

High Cagers Oppose Pitt Freshman Five

Game Scheduled For Tuesday Night—Freshies Have Fast Quintet

For the second time this season Coach Phil Bridenbaugh's New Castle high basketball team will go into action when it opposes the Pitt University Freshies Tuesday night on the George Washington Junior High floor. The game starts at 8:00 o'clock.

The Freshies have a fast quintet. In the opener the coming Panthers trounced Greensburg by a lop-sided score. In the second battle Alderdice high triumphed over the Pitt passers by a small margin. Now they are called to face the local machine which opened its season Friday night losing a tough one to Scott high of North Braddock, 26-25.

Wainio To Play

Francis Wainio, last season star who played with the local high school will enact a different role. Instead of wearing a Red and Black uniform he will be attired in a Pitt insignia opposing his Alma Mater. Wainio will occupy one of the forward berths. He may prove a menace to the local machine.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will send his cohorts through their first workout of the week today in preparation for the contest. In the season opener the local team appeared impressive in the first two quarters but in the last half something went wrong. The boys must have given all they had in the first half as they appeared tired. But for an opening battle the Senior high lads looked good.

The same lineup that faced Scott will likely start the tilt Tuesday. Andy Lasky will be stationed at center. John Uram and John Teplica at forwards and Reiber and Nick Uram will occupy the guard controls.

Union Athletic Association To Meet Tonight

The Union Township Athletic Association will hold an important meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the school building. The matter of a fitting banquet for the Lawrence county class B football champions will be taken up for discussion. Also there are several resolutions that will be considered.

It is asked that all members of the association make it a point to be present tonight. The recent organization in Union township has met with a ready response and things athletically should hum in the vicinity from now on.

9B5's, 7A3's WIN

Class 9B5's basketball team at the George Washington Junior high school, girls' section, won over 9A3 by the score of 12 to 4, and the 7A3 girls defeated the 7A2 girls 12 to 6 last week.

Games are still being played in the girls' division of the inter-class league contest. The boys' section closed a few weeks ago.

WHAT NEW CASTLE SCHOOLS ARE DOING

Under the general caption of "Know Your School Series," a series of bulletins has been prepared by various teachers of the New Castle schools dealing with the activities of the schools.

Each bulletin deals with some particular phase of school life in this city and the entire series can be classed as a full description of the school curriculum here.

Here is one of the series.

THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL LIBRARY

By Margaret E. Brenner

The wheels of progress and the hands of time move on. The curtain has gone down on the little red schoolhouse of yester-year just as surely as it has on the log cabin and one "one-hoss shay". One scene of the early days which is stamped indelibly upon our memory is that of Abraham Lincoln reading a favorite book by the light of the fire's gleam. Facilities for accommodating this hunger for books have recently been improved.

The first free library dates from the year 1870, but providing material for children has been recent. For a number of years a library has been recognized as an essential in any high school, but its development in the elementary school is a product of the last decade. The need for such libraries is due chiefly to: 1) emphasis being placed on individual instruction; (2) the employment of better trained teachers; and, (3) the breaking down of subject matter lines.

Old and young alike thrill to the adventures of the pioneer, and so may New Castle be proud of her early attempts to establish a library in each elementary school. The platoon plan, with its flexible program, gives an excellent opportunity for its development. John Dewey, the famous educator, has given us, as a community, an excellent ideal in these words: "What the best parents want for their child, the community must want for its children." When the school, to meet the needs of the community, set up objectives for its teaching, libraries became necessary.

When administrators and executives of New Castle, feeling the need, expressed the desire to make elementary libraries a definite part of the school system so much enthusiasm was shown that the schools accepted the responsibility of launching the experiment. Each school is responsible for its own library book collection and the upkeep of the same. Various means for raising necessary funds have been employed, such as entertainments, sale of waste paper, taking subscriptions for magazines, and in many cases the financial burden has been carried almost entirely by the Parent-Teacher Associations. These plans necessarily have certain limitations, but a real attempt has been made to use only such money-making plans as will give full returns to the patrons. Mahoning School was aided greatly in establishing its book collection by the bequest of Miss Martha Wells.

The administration of the elementary school libraries is in the hands of the teacher-librarians, who have the training necessary for a classroom teacher, and some work along the line of children's reading. In all except one school this teacher has, in addition to the library work, regular classroom duties, the exception being Mahoning, where a large enrollment and the presence of the first two grades of the junior high school make a full-time library teacher necessary. Beginning with the third, all grades have access to the books which are classified according to a simplified Dewey Decimal System in order to facilitate their use, and to familiarize the children with the organization of the public library.

Lucille F. Fargo, in her well-known book "The Library in the School", lists seven library objectives, the first of which is—"to enrich the school curriculum by providing library service for pupils and teachers". To provide the service by which pupils and teachers are brought into contact with sources of knowledge outside of text-books is distinctly a library function. Unfortunately, it has often times been overlooked, it being thought that to buy a collection of books was enough. In reality, the intimate, personal service rendered by the librarian in bringing books and readers together is of more importance than the size of the collection. Her work is not to care for books, but service implies filing of all useful material, making lists for teachers of material in the library, assisting in reference work of pupils, and many other tasks to aid in the school program.

The second objective is: "to acquire and organize library materials for school service". Some, however, have claimed that this is the function of the public library alone. True, the public library is a great factor, but for the following reasons we need, in addition, the school collection: (1) the school provides a personally conducted tour as against the free lance expeditions of the public library; (2) the school gets at all children, the non-readers as well as the readers, (3) the most important reason lies in a study of the curriculum. If the day-by-day work of the school requires a constant and intimate use of a wide range of library resources, it is very necessary to have them available within the school's walls.

Third: "to give instruction in the independent use of libraries and of books as tools". If, as is commonly said, the library is the people's university, then the people should learn in school to handle its resources efficiently and intelligently. The need of such helps as the table of contents, index, and title page of a book, the encyclopedia, card catalogue, and dictionary, is experienced many times a day. Therefore, the use of each is taught to develop a working knowledge of both school and public libraries.

Fourth: "to share with other departments of the school responsibility for fruitful social training". Because of a plan of administration very different from that of an ordinary classroom, the library has a unique opportunity for such instruction. Its atmosphere is more informal, its discipline more free, and its work more individualized. We emphasize the individual's obligation in caring for public property, regard for the rights of others in keeping the room quiet, and courtesy to others working there.

Fifth: "to foster informational reading as a life habit. The organized school library, with its atmosphere of freedom and friendliness, easily accomplishes something that the classroom does with difficulty. It makes learning through books attractive and so fosters informational reading as a life habit. Children have a natural interest in such educational material as stories and facts of other lands, nature, and history. Recently a survey was taken in a sixth grade group, and it was found that twenty-nine, in a class of forty, were reading books of an informational type. The choice of books was entirely voluntary, each child going to the shelves to make his selection. Can we offord to allow this interest to go unsatisfied? We aim to develop in even lower grade children the idea of reading along the lines they are studying in subject classes, thus creating an attitude sorely needed in all forms of industry and professions—that of doing more than is required.

Sixth: "to encourage the habit of reading for pleasure". The schoolboy, who years ago hid a thrilling story of travel behind his geography in order to read it in school, has no counterpart in the modern school where the book is brought out into the open and the boy encouraged to spend a library period in its persual. To see the smile on a small boy's face as he grasps a new book which will tell him more of his chief interest, aviation, and his supreme hero, Lindbergh, is enough to convince any observer that the pleasure is worthwhile. To the extent that training for the right use of leisure is an educational objective, the school library is performing a proper function when it encourages the habit of reading for pleasure. One phase of the library's contribution to children's happiness is story telling which is carried on in all grades. An effort is being made to combine this art also with classroom work. For example, when the class is studying India, the librarian will tell Jataka Tales and stories from Kipling.

Seventh: "to develop the library habit." Comment on this desired end seems unnecessary, for it will naturally follow if the other objectives have been achieved.

The old proverb "a good beginning is half done". Now that the elementary school library has been successfully started in New Castle, may they become better and more complete with each year. The need for more books as well as more and better equipment is urgent in order to meet requirements for standard service. A complete library is achieved only when the room has acquired the friendly atmosphere and mellow character which beckon to the passing student or tug at the coat tails of the boy who must be away to his next class. The library must become the living room, the hearthside, of the school. If the school has a soul, it will abide in the library.

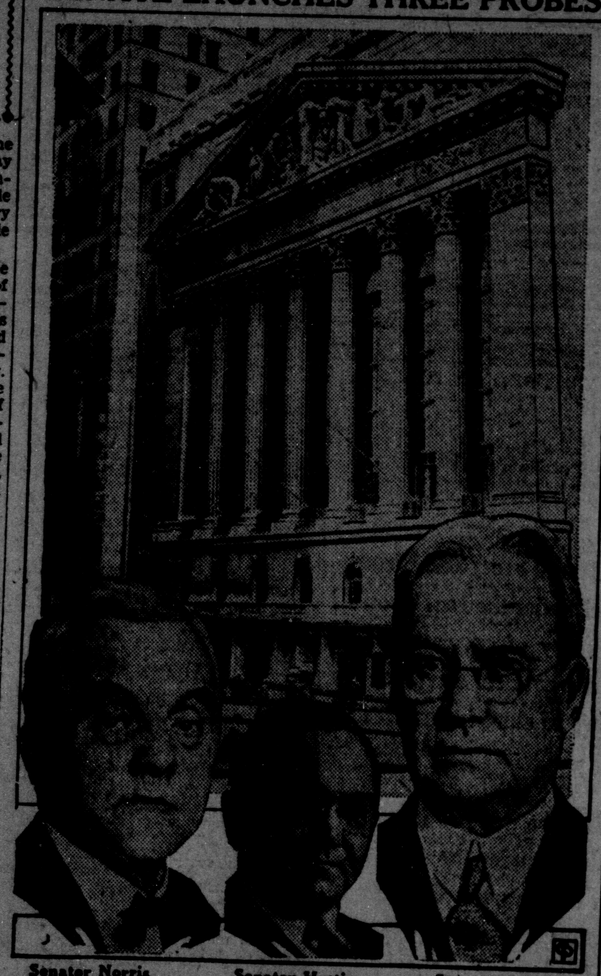
SENATE LAUNCHES THREE PROBES



Senator Norris Senator Hastings Senator Johnson

A searching and comprehensive investigation of banking, stock and commodity exchange operations soon will be under way in the U. S. senate. Initiated by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, the senate will probe the profits and commissions made by banking and investment houses in selling millions of dollars of foreign government and industrial securities to the American people during the past 10 years. A second investigation, sponsored by Senator George W. Norris, will look into the operations of the federal farm board and the activities of other commodity exchanges in opposing the board's marketing efforts. The third inquiry, asked by Senator Hastings, of Delaware, is directed at short selling operations of brokers and speculators on the New York Stock Exchange.

QUADRUPLETS BORN ON CHRISTMAS

On Christmas day the famous Mahaney quadruplets celebrate their eighth birthday anniversary in their home at St. John, New Brunswick, Canada. They arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahaney, of St. John, on a frosty Christmas night back in 1923, right on the heels of Santa Claus. Despite the fact that medical experts despaired of rearing them to health and strength, today they are as normal as any one of their playmates. They are shown here practicing Christmas carols for their combination Christmas-birthday celebration, and are, left to right, Edna Louise, John Douglas, Lydia Christine, Edith Mav Mahaney.

These Stars to Battle for East and Charity

This team, made up of All-American candidates from eastern, southern and mid-western schools and coached by Andy Kerr, Colgate mentor, and Dick Hanley, Northwestern grid tutor, will represent the "East" in the annual East-West charity game in San Francisco, Cal., New Year's Day. Some of the East's players are shown above. They are: Ends—Captain John Orsi of Colgate, Captain George Ellert of Syracuse, Bill Hewitt of Michigan. Tackles—Captain Dallas Marvil of Northwestern, Jim MacMurdo of Pittsburgh. Guard—Herman Hickman of Tennessee. Center—Chester Miller of Purdue. Backs—Bill Morton of Dartmouth, Gene McEver of Tennessee, Jim Murphy of Fordham, Jim Purvis of Purdue, Clark Hinkle of Bucknell.

COURTESY HOME & FIELD

The well dressed bed of the present day must not only be luxuriously comfortable, but harmoniously beautiful as well. It must be dressed with blanket coverlets, with embroidered sheets, and comfortables of crisp taffeta, or of rayon, celanese, sateen or other cotton materials. The bed at the left has pink crepe de chine sheets and case and moire cover—flower sprigged and satin striped —and a small silk pillow. Center is a modern bed ensemble with white sheets and pillowcases with green edges and three-letter monogram. The tailored coverlet of crinkled crepe is green and the blanket at the foot of the bed is green and peach. Right, flowered sheets with sheer lawn cover over peach blankets are used with flowered and green taffeta comfort with scalloped edge.

BIBLE HAS ITS ERRORS

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Calif.—The Bible has its errors, according to Professor William Poper of the University of California. In the case of the first 35 chapters of the Book of Isaiah, he said many of the unintelligible phrases were the result of errors which have crept in during the early centuries of the Bible's existence. He recently completed a new translation of the first part of the Book of Isaiah which removes the obscure passages over which endless disputes have been waged, and which, he believes, restores the Book of Isaiah to the form in which it was written.

OLD JEWELS RECOVERED

(International News Service)

HONOLULU. — Three diamond rings, one of which belonged to the late Queen Emma and to other members of Hawaiian royalty before her, were sold to a Chinese jeweler by a juvenile thief for a cheap men's wrist watch and $12 in cash. Police, who arrested the youth and Sing Kee, 28, the jeweler, returned the rings valued at $303 to their owner, Mrs. Roamana Kia, whose mother-in-law had received them as a gift from the queen.

QUADRUPLETS BORN ON CHRISTMAS

On Christmas day the famous Mahaney quadruplets celebrate their eighth birthday anniversary in their home at St. John, New Brunswick, Canada. They arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mahaney, of St. John, on a frosty Christmas night back in 1928, right on the heels of Santa Claus. Despite the fact that medical experts despaired of rearing them to health and strength, today they are as normal as any one of their playmates. They are shown here practicing Christmas carols for their combination Christmas-birthday celebration, and are, left to right, Edna Louise, John Douglas, Lydia Christine. Edith Mav Mahaney.

These Stars to Battle for East and Charity

This team, made up of All-American candidates from eastern, southern and mid-western schools and coached by Andy Kerr, Colgate mentor, and Dick Hanley, Northwestern grid tutor, will represent the "East" in the annual East-West charity game in San Francisco, Cal., New Year's Day. Some of the East's players are shown above. They are: Ends—Captain John Orsi of Colgate, Captain George Ellert of Syracuse, Bill Hewitt of Michigan. Tackles—Captain Dallas Marvil of Northwestern, Jim MacMurdo of Pittsburgh. Guard—Herman Hickman of Tennessee. Center—Chester Miller of Purdue. Backs—Bill Morton of Dartmouth, Gene McEver of Tennessee, Jim Murphy of Fordham, Jim Purvis of Purdue, Clark Hinkle of Bucknell.

WELL DRESSED BED MUST BE HARMONIOUS, DECORATIVE, COMFORTABLE

The well dressed bed of the present day must not only be luxuriously comfortable, but harmoniously beautiful as well. It must be dressed with blanket coverlets, with embroidered sheets, and comfortables of crisp taffeta, or of rayon, celanese, sateen or other cotton materials. The bed at the left has pink crepe de chine sheets and case and moire cover—flower sprigged and satin striped—and a small silk pillow. Center is a modern bed ensemble with white sheets and pillowcases with green edges and three-letter monogram. The tailored coverlet of crinkled crepe is green and the blanket at the foot of the bed is green and peach. Right, flowered sheets with sheer lawn cover over peach blankets are used with flowered and green taffeta comfort with scalloped edge.

BIBLE HAS ITS ERRORS

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Calif.—The Bible has its errors, according to Professor William Poper of the University of California. In the case of the first 35 chapters of the Book of Isaiah, he said many of the unintelligible phrases were the result of errors which have crept in during the early centuries of the Bible's existence. He recently completed a new translation of the first part of the Book of Isaiah which removes the obscure passages over which endless disputes have been waged, and which, he believes, restores the Book of Isaiah to the form in which it was written.

OLD JEWELS RECOVERED

(International News Service)

HONOLULU. — Three diamond rings, one of which belonged to the late Queen Emma and to other members of Hawaiian royalty before her, were sold to a Chinese jeweler by a juvenile thief for a cheap men's wrist watch and $12 in cash. Police, who arrested the youth and Sing Kee, 28, the jeweler, returned the rings valued at $303 to their owner, Mrs. Roamana Kia, whose mother-in-law had received them as a gift from the queen.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Market Is Dull And Quiet Today

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Most of the active stocks settled to lower price levels in the early trading today as the result of further profit-taking in last week's bull leaders and unsettlement in important divisions of domestic trade. The Steel industry has declined to the low operating levels of the year, and estimates place this week's Steel output as low as 20 per cent of mill capacity.

United States Steel started the new week a point lower, and swung in a narrow range between 40¼ and 41. This compares with last week's at 36. New York Central led an early reaction in the railroad stocks and fell off 2 points to 30½, though rallying to 31½. Coppers and Oils started at fractionally lower levels, recovering in the second hour.

In contrast to Friday's boiling session, the market was dull and quiet, lapsing into the usual year-end pre-holiday gate.

Auburn Auto, Dupont, J. I. Case and other favorites firmed up near the noon period and reached the best prices of the day. The rails were also in slightly better demand, with prices virtually unchanged. Grain sold off fractionally and Cotton lost 4 to 9 points. Call money was unchanged at 3 per cent.

Rumor Commissioners To Have Open Meetings

Regularly scheduled meetings, open to the public, the same as are held by the board of school directors and city council, may be held by the county commissioners after the first of the year, according to reports in circulation.

Members of city council meet several times a week. Their meetings are open to the public and the press is invited in. The same is true of the school board. The public usually learns about the county commissioners' meetings when the commissioners are ready to make them public.

One of the commissioners intends to propose that the county commissioners meet at regularly scheduled hours for business purposes, and that the public be invited to attend, it is said.

Many citizens who have discussed the matter are heartily in favor of such an arrangement.

Record Attendance At Men's Bible Class

Officials Of The City And Council Attend Sabbath School Session Sunday

All attendance records were broken yesterday in the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church, when 265 men filled every available inch of the class room. The previous high record was made about one year ago, when 203 were present.

George Fox, president of the class, said that the 265 men were a Christmas present for the teacher, pastor George M. Landis. J. D. Reebel, chairman of the attendance committee in accordance with a promise made at the beginning of this drive to resign as soon as there were 250 or more men in attendance presented his written resignation.

The class voted unanimously not to accept the resignation, and the president tore it to pieces with the applause of the class.

Special mention was made of those who had put forth a special effort to bring the attendance up to 250 or more. Councilman "Stan" Tresser was introduced together with a full muster of the City Street Department. "Tommy" Jones, traffic Officer, was accused of directing traffic to the class. Others in attendance were Judge Lawrence Hildebrand, Sheriff Johnson and Deputy Sheriff Wm. Reynolds and "Andy" Devitto: County Detective Peck Lee and former president of the class, "Bert" Perry of Youngstown. The teacher gave a Christmas lesson on the subject "In the Fullness of Time."

Arnaldo Mussolini Is Taken By Death

Brother Of Premier Mussolini Dies Suddenly In Milan, Italy

(International News Service)

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 21—Arnaldo Mussolini, noted editor and brother of Premier Benito Mussolini, died suddenly today at the age of 50.

While accompanying his sister to the railroad station, Mussolini complained of feeling ill and collapsed a few minutes later. Medical aid was hurriedly summoned, but he was dead when physicians arrived.

Arnaldo Mussolini was editor of the influential newspaper Popolo D'Italia and chairman of numerous financial corporations.

Dr. Kane Denies Having Accepted Post Of Teaching

Recently Acquitted College Professor Denies Going To Spain To Teach

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., Dec. 21.—Dr. Elisha Kent Kane, 3rd, former professor at the University of Tennessee recently acquitted of the drowning of his wife, after a dramatic court trial, today denied reports he had been offered a position in a Spanish university.

He said, however, he plans soon to travel to Spain there to continue his studies of the romance languages at the University of Madrid.

"My plans are still nebulous," Dr. Kane declared. "I will spend the holidays in Kane and then will go to New York. After that, I intend to go to Spain and study at the University of Madrid."

He revealed that his newest book, a translation of a romantic Spanish novel, was complete with the exception of illustrations. It will be in the hands of publishers by spring, Dr. Kane said.

The former instructor appeared tired and drawn from his courtroom ordeal. He was accompanied here by his brother, Dr. Thomas L. Kane.

Minister Talks Bandits Out Of Taking His Auto

Pittsburgh Minister Has Unusual Experience With Three Armed Bandits

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21.—Police today are not searching for three bandits who held up, kidnapped and robbed the Rev. John Ray Ewers because, officially, police don't know anything about it.

So fortunate did the clergyman think himself when he was able to talk the trio out of theft of his car and watch he didn't report the incident.

The three men, armed, assisted Rev. Ewers into his car, parked in front of his church here. They drove around, the minister related, and he attempted to "tell them this was the wrong way to live."

"They admitted it," he related today, "but said they needed the cash."

After some parleying, the divine argued the trio out of taking his car and watch and although they relieved him of "a nice little bit" from his purse, they even returned the purse.

FIVE HOMES IN PITTSTON SUFFER DAMAGE BY BOMB

Heavy Dynamite Charge Hurls Six From Beds, Four Are Children

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 21.—Six persons, four of them children, were hurled from their beds and narrowly escaped death and five homes were partially wrecked today when a heavy dynamite charge was exploded on the front porch of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Logana at Pittston.

The Logana's and their four children were tossed from their beds by the concussion but were otherwise unhurt.

Windows in surrounding houses were shattered.

A police detail was rushed to the scene. No clues were found.

Urges Senate Speed Up Enactment Of Administrations Program

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—President Hoover appealed to Senate leaders today to speed up enactment of the administration's economic program, emphasizing the ratification of the debt moratorium, the strengthening of the federal farm loan banks by grant of additional $100,000,000 capital, and creation of the federal reconstruction corporation with a credit of $500,000,000 to aid sick financial and industrial institutions.

The president's appeal was made to Senate leaders at a breakfast at the White House, and followed a similiar appeal made by Mr. Hoover last week to house leaders.
